- February 13, 2019
- March 6, 2019

During the period covered by this report, two statutory study committees met, and nine study committees were established to report to the 2019-20 Joint Legislative Council.

The statutory committees were:

- Law Revision Committee
- State-Tribal Relations

The study committees were:

- Alcohol Beverages Enforcement
- Bail and Conditions of Pretrial Release
- Child Placement and Support
- Direct Primary Care
- Identification and Management of Dyslexia
- Investment and Use of the School Trust Funds
- Minor Guardianships
- Property Tax Assessment Practices
- Use of Police Body Cameras

Organization and Activities of the Joint Legislative Council

Twenty-two legislators serve on the Joint Legislative Council: 11 from the Senate; and 11 from the Assembly. Twelve of these members are ex officio and serve on the Council because of their positions as legislative leaders. These members are: the speaker of the Assembly; the president of the Senate; the speaker pro tempore of the Assembly; president pro tempore of the Senate; the majority and minority leaders of the Assembly and Senate; the two co-chairs of the Joint Committee on Finance (JCF); and the ranking minority member of JCF from each house. The other 10 members are appointed in the same manner as members of standing committees are appointed: five are appointed by the chair of the Senate Committee on Organization; and five by the speaker of the Assembly. [s. 13.81 (1), Stats.]

The Joint Legislative Council establishes study committees during the recess periods of the Legislature. The council determines which studies will be conducted and establishes committees to review, study, and propose recommendations. These studies generally are of four types:

- Intensive examination of problems that are expected to confront a succeeding Legislature.
- Review of controversial subjects that were unresolved by the previous Legislature.
- Major codifications and revisions of portions of the law.

- Methods of improving the operation and effectiveness of state agencies.

There are two continuing council committees currently required by statute: the Special Committee on State-Tribal Relations; and the Law Revision Committee. [s. 13.83, Stats.]

Each committee submits a report to the Joint Legislative Council. In almost all cases, the report makes recommendations for legislative changes based upon its study. The council reviews the recommendations for legislation and introduces those approved by a majority of the membership of the council (12 votes).

Operation of Legislative Council Staff

The Joint Legislative Council and the council's study committees are staffed by a nonpartisan legislative service agency. The Legislative Council staff serves in the unclassified service. As of June 30, 2020, the council staff included, in addition to the Director, 17 attorneys, two analysts, and five administrative staff.

The basic duties of the staff include:

Services for the council and its committees. The Legislative Council staff provides services for the Joint Legislative Council and its study committees.

Services for legislative committees. The Legislative Council staff provides nonpartisan legal analysis and policy research for standing committees and their subcommittees, select or special committees of the Legislature, and a number of joint statutory committees. The Legislative Council staff serves as the secretariat for the Joint Committee on Legislative Organization and for the Joint Committee on Employment Relations.

Services for individual legislators. Upon request, the Legislative Council staff provides legal analysis and other research to individual legislators.

Administrative Rules Clearinghouse. Prior to any public hearing on a proposed rule, or prior to notification of the chief clerks if no hearing is required, the agency proposing the rule must submit the proposed rule to the Legislative Council staff for review. The Legislative Council staff is required to review the rule for various technical requirements, such as statutory authority for promulgation of the rule and the form and clarity of the rule and issue a clearinghouse report with its comments on the rule. The Legislative Council staff also works with and assists the appropriate standing committees throughout the rule-making process. For additional information, see the Clearinghouse's 2019 Annual Report to the Legislature, which is available at http://www.legis.wisconsin.gov/lc. [See s. 227.15, Stats.]

Services to the public. The Legislative Council staff is available to answer questions from members of the general public and from research agencies and legislators of other states. Information about the Legislative Council staff, as well as publications prepared by the staff, is available at http://www.legis.wisconsin.gov/lc.
