INTERSTATE BANKING

Current law permits certain types of regional bank and bank holding company mergers and acquisitions. Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri and Ohio are the regional states covered by the current interstate banking law. Under current law, an in-state bank or in-state bank holding company may acquire direct or indirect ownership or control of voting shares of, an interest in or substantially all of the assets of one or more regional state banks or regional state bank holding companies and may merge with one or more regional state banks or regional state bank holding companies.

The current regional interstate banking law also permits a regional state bank holding company to acquire ownership or control of one or more in-state banks or in-state bank holding companies or to merge with one or more in-state bank holding companies, if the commissioner makes certain findings. The commissioner must find that the statutes of the regional state in which the regional state bank holding company has its principal place of business permit in-state bank holding companies both to acquire one or more regional state banks and to acquire and merge with one or more regional state bank holding companies in the regional state. Current law provides for public notice and hearing on the transaction, and payment by the regional state bank holding company of a $5,000 application fee and the banking commissioner's actual costs related to the application. Current law contains provisions protecting an in-state bank from acquisition if the in-state bank has been in existence for less than 5 years. Under current law, the commissioner may disapprove the regional state bank holding company merger or acquisition if he or she makes any of certain specified findings. Acquisitions of up to 5% of the voting shares or any amount of nonvoting shares of one or more in-state banks are exempt under current law. Current law also contains provisions allowing a charitable trust to transfer stock in in-state bank holding companies to banks or bank holding companies in a nonreciprocal state, if certain requirements are met.

This bill repeals these regional interstate banking provisions and creates new provisions governing acquisitions of in-state banks and in-state bank holding companies, regardless of the home state or country of the acquiring company. Under the bill, except as expressly permitted by federal law, no company may acquire an in-state bank or in-state bank holding company, without commissioner approval. This approval is required for a company to merge or consolidate with an in-state bank holding company, to assume direct or indirect ownership of more than a specified percentage of any class of voting shares of an in-state bank holding company or an in-state bank, or take other action that results in the direct or indirect acquisition of control of an in-state bank holding company or an in-state bank. The specified percentage of voting shares that triggers approval requirements is 25% if the acquiring company is not a bank holding company prior to the acquisition and 5% if the acquiring company is a bank holding company prior to the acquisition. An exemption from the approval requirements exists for certain transactions arranged to prevent the insolvency or closing of the acquired bank or in certain transactions where a bank forms its own bank holding company. In acquisitions that are exempt from the approval requirements, the parties must give the commissioner written notice of the transaction, generally at least 15 days before the effective date of the acquisition.

If approval is required, the acquiring company is required to file an application with the commissioner, to pay an application fee of $5,000 and the commissioner's actual costs incurred in connection with the application, to publish a notice in the official state newspaper, and to provide proof of compliance with requirements applicable to foreign corporations transacting business in the state. Unless the commissioner finds that an emergency exists, the commissioner is required to hold a hearing on the transaction if at least 25 state residents of the state petition for a hearing, or if the commissioner calls for a hearing on his or her own motion, within 30 days of the newspaper notice.

The commissioner may disapprove the transaction if the commissioner determines that the transaction would be contrary to the best interests of the shareholders or customers of the in-state bank or in-state bank holding company or is detrimental to the safety and soundness of the applicant or the in-state bank or in-state bank holding company. The commissioner may also disapprove the transaction if the applicant or its officers, directors or principal shareholders lack an established record of sound performance, efficient management, financial responsibility and integrity, if the applicant has received ratings of "needs to improve record of meeting community credit needs" or "substantial noncompliance in meeting community credit needs" under the federal community reinvestment act, or if the applicant has failed to enter into an agreement to comply with state consumer credit charges and disclosures that are not preempted by federal law.

The bill retains provisions similar to those under the current regional banking law, which provide protections for banks which have not been in existence and in continuous operation for at least 5 years. Unlike current law, the bill provides that these protections do not apply to banks resulting from a merger of in-state banks, if the in-state banks would have been in existence and continuous operation for at least 5 years but for the in-state merger. The bill requires that a company controlling an in-state bank or in-state bank holding company file certain reports regarding its financial condition.

OTHER CHANGES

In addition to the provisions regarding interstate banking, the bill modifies provisions relating to the ability of banks to enter into contracts with depository institutions for the provision of banking and financially related products services. Current law allows such contracts with other banks and with savings and loan associations; banks are required to inform the commissioner in writing of contracts with other banks. Under the bill, banks may also contract with depository institutions other than banks and savings and loan associations, but must provide a written notice of intention to enter into a contract to the commissioner at least 30 days before the effective date of the contract, together with a description of the services to be provided and a copy of the contract. The bill explicitly prohibits a bank from conducting any activity as an agent that it would be prohibited from conducting as a principal. The bill also allows the commissioner to order a bank and certain other depository institutions to cease acting as an agent or principal under the contract if the commissioner finds that it is inconsistent with safe and sound banking practices.

Current law requires a bank's board of directors and loan committee to meet at least once each month. This bill changes these requirements to require only quarterly meetings. The bill also makes certain changes regarding customer bank communications terminals, such as automated teller machines (ATMs). Current law requires these terminals to be available for use, on a nondiscriminatory basis, to in-state banks, credit unions, savings banks and savings and loan associations. This bill eliminates the nondiscrimination requirement and requires that the terminals be made available to out-of-state institutions. Current law prohibits advertising with regard to a shared terminal that suggests or implies exclusive ownership or control of the shared terminal by any financial institution or group of financial institutions. This bill eliminates this prohibition. Lastly, the bill repeals provisions which prohibit a bank holding company from controlling banks that do not both accept demand deposits and make commercial loans.

The bill generally takes effect on September 29, 1995. Consistent with provisions in 1995 Wisconsin Act 27 (the budget act), the powers and duties of the commissioner of banking under the bill are transferred to the division of banking in the department of financial institutions, effective July 1, 1995.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
