Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Currently, with certain exceptions, registrants under the campaign finance law are required to file periodic reports with the appropriate filing officer or agency. Candidates for state office or their personal campaign or authorized support committees and other individuals, committees and groups supporting or opposing candidates for state office or statewide ballot questions file their reports with the state elections board.

This bill directs the board to accept a campaign finance report that is filed by means of electronic transmission from any registrant for whom the board serves as a filing agency. The bill also directs the board to make available to registrants software that is designed to facilitate complete electronic filing of campaign finance reports at a price that may not exceed cost. Under the bill, any registrant who or which files a report electronically must also file a copy of the report recorded on a medium prescribed by the board, together with a computer-generated copy of the report printed on paper. The paper copy must be signed and filed no later than the date currently prescribed by law for filing of the report. The bill directs the board to provide complete instructions to any registrant who or which wishes to file reports electronically under the bill.
