9 created by 1st class cities.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Currently, the membership of the commission governing a metropolitan sewerage district created by a first class city — currently only the Milwaukee Metropolitan Sewerage District (MMSD) — is composed of not less than nine nor more than 13 members who are appointed by the mayor of the first class city and an executive council consisting of the chief elective officers of the other cities and the villages and towns that are wholly or partly contained within the district. Members serve for three-year terms. The allocation of seats between the first class city and the other municipalities is determined on the basis of the populations of the first class city and the other territory within the district relative to the population of the district. Commissioners may be removed by their appointing authorities at any time, and vacancies are filled in the same manner that regular appointments are made.

This bill provides instead for an 11-member commission to be elected by the electors of the metropolitan sewerage district on a nonpartisan ballot at the spring election. Under the bill, each member is elected to represent a subdistrict within the metropolitan sewerage district. Subdistricts must be equal in population, insofar as practicable. A member must reside within the subdistrict from which he or she is elected. Members serve for two-year terms, with the terms of those members representing even-numbered subdistricts expiring in even-numbered years and the terms of those members representing odd-numbered subdistricts expiring in odd-numbered years. Commissioners may be removed from office by a circuit court for cause and are subject to recall in the same manner as is currently provided for municipal elective officers. Vacancies are filled by appointment of the remaining members of the commission until a successor can be chosen at the spring election.

Under current law, the chairperson of the MMSD is elected by the other commissioners for a term specified by MMSD rule, although the chairperson is removable at the pleasure of the commission. Under this bill, the chairperson of the MMSD is elected by the other commissioners for a one-year term, and he or she is still removable during his or her term by a majority vote of the other members of the commission.

The bill provides for the commission to redistrict the subdistricts on a decennial basis. Under the bill, each reapportionment plan must provide for each subdistrict to consist of whole wards or municipalities. In addition, the commission must give due consideration to maintaining the compactness of subdistricts, maintaining the integrity of counties and municipalities within subdistricts, maintaining communities of interest within subdistricts, and fostering politically competitive subdistricts. However, the bill provides for the initial plan of apportionment of the subdistricts within the metropolitan sewerage district to be prescribed by state law pursuant to the recommendations of a special legislative committee which is charged by the bill with recommending an initial apportionment plan to the legislature. The bill provides that the plan is subject to the same standards that apply to a decennial reapportionment plan. Under the bill, the committee consists of ten members, including four members of the majority party within each house and one member of the minority party within each house. Each house must ensure that at least three of its appointees represent legislative districts that are wholly or partially contained within the metropolitan sewerage district. The enacted plan remains in effect until the next decennial census.

For further information see the local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
