Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, appointments to a town plan commission of a town that is authorized to exercise village powers must be made by the town board chairperson, who also selects the commission chairperson. The town chairperson may appoint himself or herself to the commission. This current law provision applies only to towns with a population of less than 2,500.

Under this bill, appointments to a town plan commission are still made by the town board chairperson, but are subject to confirmation by the town board. The town board chairperson continues to select the commission chairperson. The bill also authorizes a majority of the town board to remove appointees from the town plan commission. All other current law provisions relating to the appointment of citizen members of the commission, terms of the commission members, and authority of the commission remain unchanged and the bill also applies to towns with a population of at least 2,500.

For further information see the local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
