RULINGS OF THE CHAIR

During the morning's session, Senator Knowles raised the point of order that Senate Bill 1 having been previously laid over twice, could not be laid over a third time by the introduction of senate substitute amendment 3 pursuant to Senate Rule 47.

The chair ruled the point of order was not well taken.

On June 22, 1971 Senator Risser raised a point of order on Senate Bill 163.

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE [July 8, 1971]

Senate Bill 163 relates to deposits in the veterans trust fund and does have a fiscal note appended.

Section 16.47 (2) of the statutes provides in part that a fiscal-effect bill shall not "be passed by either house until the general fund budget bill has passed both houses" (emphasis supplied) unless it carries an emergency clause.

The point of order raised is basically: When the statute says: . . . "shall not be passed by either house" . . . , what is the meaning of the word "pass".

It is the chair's ruling that, without exceeding the limits set by statute section 16.47 (2) the senate can only advance a fiscal-effect measure originating in the senate through the debate on 3rd reading and to the final question: "Shall the bill pass?" At that point, the proposal would have to be laid aside to await enactment of the general fund executive budget. When the budget enactment has occurred, the senate could then immediately proceed to the taking of the roll on the question "Shall the bill pass?".

Respectfully submitted,

MARTIN J. SCHREIBER,
Lieutenant Governor.

By request of Senator Knowles, with unanimous consent, his right to alternative actions on Senate Bill 1 were reserved for the afternoon's session.

By request of Senator Keppler, with unanimous consent, the senate recessed until 2:00 P.M.
