

Legislative Council Note, 1957: This amendment is designed to incorporate into the vehicle code the change in the law made by ch. 17, laws of 1957, insofar as that act amended s. 85.845 of the 1955 statutes. It appears to have been the purpose of that act to grant to the counties the same rights with respect to parking meters and the use of revenue therefrom has had been previously conferred upon cities and villages. [Bill 643-S]

Legislative Council Note, 1957: This is a restatement (with the changes noted below) of those parts of s. 85.54 relating to the authority of state and local officials to place special, seasonal or temporary weight restrictions on highways and highway structures and to prohibit vehicles causing damage from using the highways. Those parts of s. 85.54 which are of general interest to the public have been restated in ss. 348.17 and 348.27 (8). While the present version of the law does not expressly refer to weight limitations because of special or temporary conditions, the attorney general has ruled that the section does not grant authority to impose permanent weight restrictions on a highway below the statutory class "B" limitations. 39 Atty. Gen. 496 (1950).

Two changes have been made in the present law: (1) The provision requiring approval of the county highway commissioner in the case of special weight limitation imposed on town highways or on city or village streets has been dropped; and (2) the provision in sub. (1) (c) restricting the authority of traffic officers and officers in charge of maintenance to order suspension of operation when a contract provides for reimbursement for any damage done has been added. [Bill 99-S]

Editor's Note: Amendment 1-A to Bill 99-S, by the same author, added a reference to 84.20 in (1)(c) and carried the following note: "Section 84.20 gives the state highway commission the option of rebuilding a damaged highway rather than reimbursing the local unit of government for the damage done. The amendment makes clear that use of a highway cannot be denied when this option is applicable even though the construction contract does not provide for reimbursement."

An ordinance of the town in which Milwaukee county's airport is located, so far as attempting to require local licenses from, and to prevent the daily solicitation of passengers at the airport by, the drivers of cabs licensed by the city of Milwaukee and engaged in carrying air-line passengers between the city and the airport for a cab company licensed by the city and authorized by the public service commission to operate limousines interurban between the city and the airport, violates 85.82, Stats. 1949, and, together with a provision in the ordinance that no license will be issued in the case of a corporation unless its records and main office are located in the town, the ordinance is void as attempting to deprive such cab company and its drivers of their property rights without due process of law and denying to them the equal protection of the laws. Milwaukee County v. Lake, 259 W 208, 47 NW (2d) 87.

Since the Milwaukee county airport terminal is in the city of Milwaukee and the county has not adopted any regulatory ordinances, a cab driver from another municipality and not licensed under the Milwaukee licensing ordinance, can be fined for taking a passenger from the airport into Milwaukee, even though he passed through another city on the trip. Courtesy Cab. Co. v. Johnson, 10 W (2d) 426, 103 NW (2d) 17.

UNIFORM COMMERCIAL CODE

Editor's Note: The purpose of the following conversion table is to assist in tracing the various statutory provisions repealed by Bill 1-S into the sections of the Uniform Commercial Code created by this bill. Except where the word "none" has been used to indicate that the repealed provision has no counterpart in the Uniform Commercial Code the table does not show specifically what happened to the law embodied in a particular repealed provision. In many cases the law was restated without change, in some cases it was substantially changed, and in still other cases a basically new approach was taken so that the connection between the old and new sections may seem quite remote. The Wisconsin Annotations to the Uniform Commercial Code (Vol. III of the Legislative Council's Report to the Governor and the 1961 Legislature), and also the official comments in the 1958 official text of the Code, will be helpful in showing specifically what changes in the law were made by various sections of the Code.

Legislative Council Note, 1969: Proposed by the UCC editorial board, this new section makes clear that an agreement by which the rights of one unsecured creditor are subordinated to the rights of another unsecured creditor of a common debtor does not of itself create a security interest. The section is intended to clarify rather than change existing law. [Bill 2-A]
