Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate:

If this change were to be passed and challenged constitutionally, the Department would be responsible for defending the state's action. Defense of that kind of action would cost between $50,000 and 100,000 depending on whether the case was decided early or went to trial. If the state lost the challenge, the state would also be liable for attorney fees and costs of plaintiff's lawyers.
