Assumptions Used In Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

This bill would allow an existing procedural obligation of the DA office with respect to notifying victims of their rights to be done in a more flexible manner. It would neither increase nor decrease the required workload placed upon the district attorney offices by the victims rights legislation.

BRIAN BURKE

WISCONSIN STATE SENATOR

Senate Chair, Joint Committee on Finance

Testimony of Senator Brian Burke
Senate Bill 214
Assembly Committee on Corrections and the Courts
March 15, 2000

Crime can devastate the lives of its victims, leaving them feeling vulnerable and powerless. In its aftermath, victims often see themselves as "outsiders looking in" as the state proceeds against the alleged perpetrator.

Last session, the legislature passed a bill enabling victims to play a more active role in the state's case and ensuring they are well-informed about the criminal proceedings. After obtaining a conviction, prosecutors must now make a reasonable attempt to provide a known victim notice of his or her right to make a statement at sentencing. District attorney offices have been challenged to provide this victim notification with no additional resources while managing increasing caseloads.

Compliance with this new requirement burdens an already congested court system, delaying justice and raiding taxpayers' pocketbooks. In many cases, courts adjourn and reconvene for the sentencing phase so the victim can be properly notified. Meanwhile, the defendant remains in custody taking up scarce jail space and taxpayers foot the bill.

Senate Bill 214 remedies this problem by allowing prosecutors to notify victims at any time during the proceedings of their right to make a sentencing statement. This honors the spirit of the law while avoiding costly pitfalls.

I urge the committee to act favorably on Senate Bill 214.
