Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

This bill creates a single trip permit called a "specialized hauling rig" permit. A specialized hauling rig is a vehicle or combination of vehicles, greater than 100 feet in length (significantly overlength), which is designed to transport nondivisible, exceptionally heavy, cargo. The specialized hauling rig itself may also be overweight.

The specialized hauling rig permit is valid only for the unladen trip to the point of loading the exceptionally heavy cargo, or the unladen trip from the point of unloading the cargo. The permit designates the route to be used by the permittee. Also, the permit does not authorize operation of a special hauling rig that is more than 120 feet in length, or that exceeds legal height limits.

This bill is anticipated to generate about 30 permits per year, for specialized hauling rigs weighing between 70,000 and 100,000 lbs. Permit fees will typically be between $20 and $45. The added revenue from these permits is likely to be no more than about $1100 a year. Staff time to issue permits is negligible, since the permit will always be issued along with currently-issued permit for the movement of the loaded specialized hauling rig.

It should be clear that this estimate is in addition to the permit fees and staff time required to issue permits for oversize/overweight loads which are hauled by specialized hauling rigs. Those permits are currently available and generate revenue based on the full weight of the exceptionally heavy load.
