Description Open burning of solid waste, illegal storage or disposal of waste tires, and providing a penalty

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Bill Summary:

This bill authorizes DNR and local town, municipal and county law enforcement officials to issue citations for violations of law regulating the open burning of solid waste and to use the DNR's Natural Resources Citation for such violations. Although open burning of solid waste is already illegal, the current enforcement method requires documentation and referral to the state Attorney General's office for charges and prosecution. As a result, typically only major violations of this law are currently referred for prosecution. Most violations for the burning of smaller amounts of solid waste have largely gone unreported in the past due to little likelihood of prosecution, or if reported, are referred to DNR air quality staff for follow-up and a letter or notice of violation issued to the responsible party. The bill provides a maximum forfeiture of $500 for violation where a citation is issued, except a $5 maximum forfeiture for the first offense involving a person burning a limited amount (60 or fewer gallons) of residential solid waste on the person's own property. The bill also exempts a person who is subject to the $5 maximum forfeiture from other related surcharges. There would be no forfeiture, surcharges or other penalty imposed until after one year. Citations could still be issued and would need to be tracked for future repeat offense penalty provisions. Information on past convictions will need to be available to DNR wardens and all other law enforcement agencies that take enforcement action under this new authority.

This bill also authorizes DNR to issue a citation to a person who operates a solid waste facility at which waste tires are stored, treated, or disposed of without a license or in violation of an approved plan of operation. Under s. 289.96(3)(a), Wis. Stats., any person who operates a facility without license or in violation of any approved plan shall forfeit not less than $10 nor more than $5,000 for each violation. Each day of continued violation is considered a separate offense. While an order is suspended, stayed or enjoined, the penalty does not accrue.

Fiscal Estimate:

The Department expects that reports or complaints of such open burning violations will increase as the public learns that DNR wardens and other local law enforcement agencies can issue citations for such violations of current law. Reported violations will also likely increase in the more rural areas of the state as these areas become more populated or urbanized as more people build homes in these areas and tolerance for burning violations decreases.

The Department estimates that after the public becomes aware of the citation authority for open burning, there will be about 450 open burning complaints (about 3 per warden) received annually that will require investigation after 4:30 pm or on weekends as this is when a significant amount of open burning occurs and air or waste management staff are unavailable. It is assumed the $5.00 citations that are issued for first time burning of 60 or fewer gallons of residential solid waste will not include court costs or the $10 Environmental Surcharge; it is not possible to determine the number of potential citations that will fall into this category. Specific penalties for citations issued for burning violations where over 60 gallons of waste is involved, for commercial entities and for 2nd offenses will be established by the Uniform Bond Committee of the Wisconsin Judicial Conference which meets annually in August to set the bond schedule for the following calendar year. Until that time, the forfeiture imposed would be set at 50% of the maximum penalty which would be $250, or $325 with surcharges and court costs included. Penalties will be deposited into the school fund but it is difficult to reasonably predict the number of citations issued (and amount of revenue generated) given the one year waiting period and overall focus on achieving compliance through education for all but the more serious offenses.

The DNR Bureau of Law Enforcement estimates the implementation of this new citation authority will result in $57,425 in additional annual costs for Conservation Wardens, calculated as follows:

- 450 complaints X 2.5 hrs/complaint (travel, investigate, process through court and disposition) = 1125 hrs. This would be equivalent to 0.5 FTE (Salary/Fringe = $90,000/FTE, supplies = $10,000/FTE) = $45,000 salary/fringe, $5,000 supplies.

- 450 complaints X 30 miles/complaint = 13,500 miles X .35/miles = $4,725 in warden travel costs.

It is estimated that at least half of the 450 anticipated complaints will be received via the DNR Hotline. Assuming that each hotline call requires 1.2 hours of time for collecting information from the caller, entering information into our data system, relaying information to a Conservation Warden and completing final data entry on the disposition of the hotline, it is estimate a total of 540 hrs per year of dispatcher time, which at this time is staffed primarily by LTE's making $10.00/hour, which equates to $5,400 in hotline LTE time.

The DNR may receive requests from additional LE agencies for DNR citation forms if they choose to use this new citation authority. The DNR does not anticipate most local law enforcement agencies will request the DNR citations, but rather continue to refer such violations to the DNR for follow-up and enforcement action if needed. For any requests that are received, the DNR would likely need to provide some minimum level of training on the use of the DNR citation form, the open burning law and the filing of dispositions with the DNR.

The cost of printing the Natural Resources Citation forms is approximately 6 cents per citation. When last purchased in July 2005, it cost the DNR $2,400 for the printing of 40,000 citation forms. The forms have been provided in the past to some local law enforcement agencies that operate Boat, Snowmobile or ATV patrols for the enforcement of the applicable sections of Chapters 23, 30 and 350, Wis. Stats.
