Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Currently there is not sufficient data to determine if there would be a significant workload increase. This bill requires that a person convicted be sentenced to a term in prison and assessed a fine. Generally, when a defendent may be sent to prison, they are more likely to request a jury trial, which can be very time-consuming and costly.

Long-Range Fiscal Implications

If this bill is enacted, a review of the data may be necessary to determine if there is a long-range fiscal impact on the DA Program.
