Fiscal Estimate Narratives

Description Tax benefits for hiring new employees and granting rule-making authority

Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

Under current law, employers are required to withhold Wisconsin income taxes from their employees' wages and to remit the amount withheld to the Department of Revenue on behalf of the employee. Amounts withheld and remitted to the Department of Revenue by the business are advance payment for the employees' Wisconsin income tax liability.

Under the bill, an eligible business may retain withholding in an amount that is equal to the increase in the business's payroll attributable to new employees with full-time jobs rather than remit the amount as withholding taxes. A business is eligible for the tax benefits if it employs no more than ten employees during the year and if it is certified by the Department of Commerce to receive the tax benefit. The new employees must begin employment after February 3, 2011 and before January 1, 2012 and must not have been employed for more than 40 hours in the 60-day period ending on the date employment begins. The new employee may not be employed to replace another employee unless the other employee separated employment voluntarily or was terminated with cause. The new employee may not be related to the employer as defined under 26 USC 51(i)(1).

Under the bill, the Department of Revenue is to consider all amounts retained as tax benefits to be amounts submitted to DOR as withholding taxes on behalf of the businesses' employees. The maximum amount of tax benefits that may be awarded under the bill is $2 million.

Fiscal Estimate

The fiscal effect is estimated to be $2 million for all fiscal years, the maximum amount of tax benefit that may be certified under the bill. The bulk of the fiscal effect is expected to be experienced in FY 2012. However, to the extent that the tax benefits under the bill exceed the amount withheld by certified businesses during FY 2012, the fiscal effect would be less than $2 million in FY 2012, with the remainder of the fiscal effect being felt in future fiscal years. For example, assume an eligible business with seven employees hires an eighth employee at an annual salary of $40,190, the average 2009 annual wage in Wisconsin, based on data from the Department of Workforce Development. The business applies to Commerce and is certified for a tax benefit of $40,190, the increase in its payroll. Based on an analysis of tax year 2009 individual tax returns, the average annual withholding per wage earner was $2,064. Therefore, on average, an employer with eight employees would remit $16,512 in withholding annually ( $$2,064 \times 8$ ). Assuming withholding amounts and the number of employees remain the same, the business would be able to retain all of its withholding for the next 2.4 years ( $$40,190/$16,472$ ).

Any additional administrative costs associated with the bill can be absorbed within existing resources of the department.
