Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

NOTE: The items contained in this draft are the initial LRB draft of the items. DWD has not completed its review of these items. Some of the language may also require review by the U.S. Department of Labor. In the past, DWD has requested considerable changes to initial LRB drafts after internal review by DWD.

This bill makes various changes in the unemployment insurance (UI) law. Significant changes include:

BENEFIT RATE CHANGES

Currently, weekly unemployment insurance benefit rates for total unemployment range from $54 for an employee who earns wages (or certain other amounts treated as wages) of at least $1,350 during at least one quarter of the employee's base period (period preceding a claim during which benefit rights accrue) to $363 for an employee who earns wages (or certain other amounts treated as wages) of at least $9,075 during any such quarter. This bill adjusts weekly benefit rates for weeks of unemployment beginning on or after January 5, 2014, to rates ranging from $55 for an employee who earns wages (or certain other amounts treated as wages) of at least $1,375 during at least one quarter of the employee's base period to $370 for an employee who earns wages (or certain other amounts treated as wages) of at least $9,250 during any such quarter. The bill does not affect the benefit rate of any employee who earns wages (or certain other amounts treated as wages) of at least $1,375 during at least one quarter of the employee's base period or any employee who earns wages (or certain other amounts treated as wages) of less than $9,100 during at least one quarter of the employee's base period.

OTHER BENEFIT CHANGES

Registration and search for work

Currently, with limited exceptions, in order to become and remain eligible to receive UI benefits for any week, a claimant is required, among other things, to register for work and to conduct a reasonable search for suitable work within that week, which must include at least two actions that constitute a reasonable search as prescribed by rule by the Department of Workforce Development (DWD).

This bill requires each claimant, subject to the same exceptions, to register for work in the manner directed by DWD and increases the minimum number of actions that a claimant must undertake to become and remain eligible for benefits to at least four actions per week.

The bill also requires a claimant, subject to the same exceptions, to provide information or job application materials and to participate in a public employment office workshop or training program or in similar reemployment services that do not require a participation fee, if either is required by DWD for a given week. The bill allows DWD to use the information or job application materials provided by a claimant to assess the claimant's efforts, skills, and ability to find or obtain work and to develop a list of potential opportunities for a claimant to obtain suitable work. However, the bill provides that a claimant who is subject to the work search requirement need not apply for a specific position on that list in order to satisfy that requirement.

Prohibiting concurrent receipt of UI and SSDI benefits

The bill disqualifies a claimant from receiving UI benefits during any week in which the claimant is actually receiving social security disability insurance (SSDI) benefits and requires a claimant, when the claimant first files for UI benefits and during each subsequent week the claimant files for UI benefits, to inform DWD whether he or she is receiving SSDI benefits.

Failure to accept suitable work or recall to former employer

Currently, with certain exceptions, if an employee fails, without good cause, to accept suitable work when offered or to return to work with a former employer that recalls the employee within 52 weeks after the employee last worked for the employer, the employee is ineligible to receive benefits until four weeks have elapsed since the end of the week in which the failure occurs and the employee earns wages, or certain other amounts treated as wages, equal to at least four times the employee's weekly benefit rate in employment covered by the unemployment insurance law of any state or the federal government.

Subject to all of the same exceptions and qualifications, the bill changes the number of weeks required to requalify under these provisions to at least ten weeks and changes the amount of wages an employee must earn to requalify under these provisions to at least ten times the employee's weekly benefit rate.

Ins

Termination of work; general requirements to requalify for benefits

Currently, unless an exemption applies, if an employee voluntarily terminates his or her work with an employer, the employee is generally ineligible to receive benefits until the following requalification requirements are satisfied: 1) four weeks have elapsed since the end of the week in which the termination occurs and 2) the employee earns wages after the week in which the termination occurs equal to at least four times the employee's weekly benefit rate in employment covered by the unemployment insurance law of any state or the federal government.

The bill modifies the first requalification requirement so that an employee who voluntarily terminates his or her work with an employer is generally ineligible to receive benefits until the employee earns wages after the week in which the termination occurs equal to at least ten times the employee's weekly benefit rate in employment covered by the unemployment insurance law of any state or the federal government. The bill eliminates the second requalification requirement that four weeks must have elapsed before the terminating employee may again become eligible for benefits.

Termination of work; exemptions from requalification requirements

Under current law, an employee who voluntarily terminates his or her work with an employer is exempt from the requalification requirements under certain circumstances, including all of the following:

1. The employee was hired to work a particular shift and terminated his or her work because the employer required the employee to transfer his or her working hours to a shift occurring at a time that would result in a lack of child care for the employee's minor children.

2. The employee terminated his or her work to accept a recall to work for a former employer within 52 weeks after having last worked for that employer.

3. The employee maintained a temporary residence near the terminated work; the employee maintained a permanent residence in another locality; and the employee terminated the work and returned to his or her permanent residence because the work available to the employee had been reduced to less than 20 hours per week in at least two consecutive weeks.

4. The employee left or lost his or her work because the employee reached the employer's compulsory retirement age.

5. The employee terminated part-time work because a loss of other, full-time employment made it economically unfeasible for the employee to continue the part-time work.

6. The employee terminated his or her work with a labor organization if the termination caused the employee to lose seniority rights granted under a collective bargaining agreement and resulted in the loss of the employee's employment with the employer that is a party to that collective bargaining agreement.

7. The employee terminated his or her work in a position serving as a part-time elected or appointed member of a governmental body or representative of employees; the employee was engaged in work for an employer other than the employer in which the employee served as the member or representative; and the employee was paid wages in the terminated work constituting not more than 5 percent of the employee's base period wages for purposes of entitlement for benefits.

7 9 8 The employee terminated his or her work in one of two or more concurrently held positions, at least one of which was full-time work, if the employee terminated his or her work before receiving notice of termination from a full-time work position.

9. The employee, while serving as a member of the U.S. armed forces, was engaged concurrently in other work and terminated that work as a result of the employee's honorable discharge or discharge under honorable conditions from active duty as a member of the U.S. armed forces for a reason that would qualify the employee to receive unemployment compensation under federal law.

8 9 10. The employee owns or controls an ownership interest in a family corporation and the employee's employment was terminated because of an involuntary cessation of the business of the corporation under certain specified conditions.

* The bill eliminates these ^{eight} ~~ten~~ exemptions from the requalification requirements for employees who voluntarily terminate employment. ✓

Under current law, subject to certain limitations, an employee who voluntarily terminates his or her work with an employer is exempt from the requalification requirements if: 1) the employee accepted work that was not suitable work under the UI law or work that the employee could have refused for specified reasons related to protecting labor standards; and 2) the employee terminated the work within ten weeks after starting the work. Under the bill, this exemption only applies if the employee terminated that work within 30 calendar days after starting the work.

Under current law, an employee who voluntarily terminates his or her work with an employer is exempt from the requalification requirements if the employee's spouse changed his or her place of employment to a place to which it is impractical to commute and the employee terminated his or her work to accompany the spouse to that place. The bill narrows this exemption so that it only applies if the employee's spouse is an active duty member of the U.S. Armed Forces who was required by the U.S. Armed Forces to relocate.

Under current law, an employee who voluntarily terminates his or her work with an employer is exempt from the requalification requirements if the employee terminated the work to accept other covered employment and earned wages in the subsequent employment equal to at least four times the employee's weekly benefit rate and if the work in the subsequent employment: 1) offered average weekly wages at least equal to the average weekly wages that the employee earned in the terminated work; 2) offered the same or a greater number of hours of work than those performed in the work terminated; 3) offered the opportunity for significantly longer term work; or 4) offered the opportunity to accept a position for which the duties were primarily discharged at a location significantly closer to the employee than the terminated work. An employee who voluntarily terminates his or her work with an employer is also exempt from the requalification requirements if the employee, while claiming benefits for partial unemployment, terminated work to accept other covered employment that offered an average weekly wage greater than the average weekly wage earned in the work terminated.

The bill consolidates these two exemptions into one exemption, which applies only if the employee terminated work to accept covered employment that: 1) offered an average weekly wage greater than the average weekly wage earned in the work terminated; 2) offered a greater number of hours of work than those performed in the work terminated; or 3) offered the opportunity for significantly longer term work. The exemption as consolidated applies regardless of whether the employee is claiming benefits for partial unemployment or whether the employee earns a certain amount of wages in the subsequent work.

The bill does not affect any other exemptions from the requalification requirements. for employees who voluntarily terminate employment (business)

Temporary help companies and work search within ten days after the end of that week

INS MD3

The bill provides that there is a rebuttable presumption that a claimant who is subject to the UI law's work search requirement has not conducted a reasonable search for suitable work in a given week if: 1) the claimant was last employed by a temporary help company, as defined under current law; 2) during that week, the individual did not contact the temporary help company for an assignment; and 3) the temporary help company submits a notice to the department reporting that the individual failed to so contact the temporary help company. The claimant may overcome the rebuttable presumption only by a showing that the claimant did in fact contact the temporary help company for an assignment or by showing that the claimant had good cause for failing to do so. The bill specifically provides that the claimant's contact of the temporary help company for a given week counts as one action toward the UI law's work search requirement for that week.

Extended training benefits other

DWD

Currently, benefits may not be denied to an otherwise eligible claimant because the claimant is enrolled in a vocational training course or a basic education course that is a prerequisite to such training ("approved training") under certain conditions. Currently, a claimant may also qualify to receive benefits while participating in an extended training program under certain conditions, under such a program, if a claimant 1) has exhausted all other rights to benefits, 2) is currently enrolled in an approved training program and was so enrolled prior to the end of the claimant's benefit year (period during which benefits are payable) that qualified the claimant for benefits, 3) if not in a current benefit year, has a benefit year that ended no earlier than 52 weeks prior to the week for which the claimant first claims extended training benefits, and 4) is not receiving any similar stipends or other training allowances for nontraining costs, is entitled to extended training benefits of up to 26 times the same benefit rate that applied to the claimant during his or her most recent benefit year if the claimant is being trained for entry into a high-demand occupation. In addition, if the benefit year of such a claimant expires in a week in which extended or other additional federal or state benefits are payable generally, the claimant is also eligible for extended training benefits while enrolled in a training program if the claimant first enrolled in the program within 52 weeks after the end of the claimant's benefit claimant (use 2x)

was not informed of this requirement or the claimant was required to contact the temporary help company for an assignment and the year that qualified the claimant for benefits. This bill deletes extended training benefits.

Treatment of cafeteria plan amounts in benefit calculations

Currently, employers must report wages to DWD and these reports are used to determine the UI benefit eligibility and amounts of benefits payable to UI claimants. The wages reported do not include salary reduction amounts withheld from employees for cafeteria plan benefits (fringe benefits the value of which is excluded from gross income under the federal Internal Revenue Code). However, these amounts are included in the formula that is used to determine the benefit eligibility and amounts payable to claimants. DWD may require employers to report the amounts in their wage reports and employers must maintain records of these amounts.

This bill excludes salary reduction amounts for cafeteria plan benefits in calculating the wages that were paid to a claimant for purposes of determining the claimant's benefit eligibility and amounts. The bill also deletes reporting and record-keeping requirements for these amounts. The effect is to raise the threshold for benefit eligibility and to potentially decrease the amount of benefits that may become payable to certain claimants whose wages include deductions for these amounts.

Failure of claimants to provide requested information

Currently, DWD may require a claimant to answer questions relating to his or her UI benefit eligibility and to provide certain demographic information for auditing purposes. A claimant is not eligible to receive benefits for any week in which the claimant fails to comply with a request by DWD for information and for any subsequent week until the claimant provides the information or satisfies DWD that he or she has good cause for failure to provide the requested information. If a claimant later complies with a request or satisfies DWD that he or she has good cause for failure to comply, the claimant is eligible to receive benefits beginning with the week in which the failure occurred, if otherwise qualified. Under this bill, if a claimant later complies with a request, the claimant is not eligible to receive benefits until the claimant complies with the request and satisfies DWD that he or she has good cause for failure to comply with the request. The bill also provides that if a claimant later complies with a request and does not have good cause for his or her initial failure to comply with the request, the claimant is eligible only to receive benefits beginning with the week in which the claimant complies with the request, if otherwise qualified.

Claimant security credentials

This bill requires each claimant for UI benefits to create security credentials in order to engage in any transactions with DWD, including the filing of an initial or continued claim for benefits. The credentials may consist of a personal identification number, username, and password, or any other means prescribed by DWD. The bill provides that if a claimant's security credentials are used in any transaction with DWD, the individual using the credentials is presumed to be the claimant or the claimant's authorized agent. The presumption may be rebutted by a preponderance of evidence showing that the claimant who created the credentials or the claimant's authorized agent was not the person who used the credentials in a given transaction. The bill also provides that if a claimant uses an agent to engage in any transaction with DWD using the claimant's security credentials, the claimant is responsible for the actions of the agent. In addition, the bill provides that if a claimant to whom security credentials or the claimant's authorized agent divulges the credentials to another person, or fails to take adequate measures to protect the credentials from being divulged to an unauthorized person, DWD is not obligated to pursue recovery of, and is not liable to the claimant for, benefits payable to the claimant that were erroneously paid to another person. Current law contains no similar provisions.

TAX CHANGES

Interest on delinquent payments

Currently, if an employer does not make a payment required under the UI law to DWD by the due date, the employer must pay interest on the amount owed equal to a variable rate determined by law from the date that the payment became due. Revenues from interest payments are used to administer the UI program. This bill permits DWD to waive or decrease the interest charged to an employer in limited circumstances as prescribed by rule of DWD.

Treatment of limited liability companies consisting of the same members

Currently, for purposes of the UI law, multiple limited liability companies (LLCs) that consist of the same members are treated as a single employer unless, subject to certain provisions, each of those LLCs files a written request with DWD to be treated as a separate employer and DWD approves the request. Under the bill, consistent with the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (FUTA), multiple LLCs that consist of the same members are always treated as separate employers, for purposes of the UI law.

OTHER CHANGES

Payment of interest on federal advances to reserve fund

Currently, if in any year the balance in the unemployment reserve fund is insufficient to make full payment of unemployment insurance benefits that become payable to claimants for that year, ~~the Department of Workforce Development~~ (DWD) secures an advance from the federal unemployment account to enable this state to make full payment of all benefits that become payable. Whenever the balance in the unemployment reserve fund is sufficient to repay the federal government for its advances and to continue to make payment of the benefits that become payable, DWD repays the federal government for its outstanding advances. Annually, the federal government assesses interest to this state on this state's outstanding advances that have not been repaid. Currently, if in any year DWD is unable to make full payment of the interest that becomes due from certain other limited sources, each employer must pay an assessment to the state unemployment interest payment fund in an amount specified by law sufficient to enable DWD to make full payment of the interest due for that year.

This bill appropriates a sum sufficient not exceeding $30,000,000 from general purpose revenues to pay any interest that becomes due to the federal government prior to July 1, 2015, on outstanding advances made to the unemployment reserve fund. Under the bill, DWD must first use any available moneys from this appropriation to make payment of the interest due for any year. If the amount appropriated, together with other available sources, is insufficient to make full payment of the interest that becomes due for any year, each employer must pay an assessment in the amount determined by DWD sufficient to cover the deficiency. If the moneys appropriated under the bill are not fully expended at the end of the 2013–15 fiscal biennium, the balance is retained in the general fund.

License revocations based on UI contribution delinquencies

Current law requires various state agencies and boards (licensing departments) that issue various licenses and other credentials (licenses) to revoke a license or deny an application for a license if the Department of Revenue (DOR) certifies that the license holder or applicant owes DOR delinquent taxes. Current law also allows the Wisconsin Supreme Court to decide whether to revoke or deny an application for a license to practice law if the license holder or applicant is certified by DOR to owe delinquent taxes. This bill creates similar provisions for license holders and applicants that DWD certifies are liable for delinquent UI contributions. UI contributions are taxes employers must pay to DWD for deposit with the federal government, and which are then used to pay the claims of claimants for UI benefits. The bill also includes within the definition of UI contributions other assessments, interest, fees, and penalties that have been imposed upon employers in connection with their UI contribution obligations. The provisions created in the bill apply only to delinquent UI contributions for which the employer has exhausted all legal rights to challenge the employer's liability.

Under the bill, each licensing department must enter into a memorandum of understanding with DWD. Under the memorandum, the licensing department must ask DWD to certify whether a license holder or applicant is liable for delinquent UI contributions. If DWD certifies to a licensing department that a license holder or applicant is liable for delinquent UI contributions, the licensing department must revoke the license or deny the application for a license. A licensing department must mail a notice of revocation or denial to the license holder or applicant, and the notice must inform the applicant or license holder of the right to a review of DWD's certification at a hearing conducted by DWD. The hearing is limited to questions of mistaken identity and prior payment of the delinquent UI contributions. Following the hearing, if DWD does not uphold its certification, DWD must issue the holder or applicant a nondelinquency certificate and the licensing department must reinstate the license or approve the application for a license without requiring any additional application, fee, or test, unless there are other grounds for denial or revocation. If DWD does uphold its certification, DWD must so inform the license holder or applicant and the licensing department. The license holder or applicant may seek judicial review of an adverse determination by DWD at the hearing by filing a petition for review in the Dane County circuit court and may appeal the court's decision. A license holder or applicant whose license has been revoked or denied because of delinquent UI contributions may also, after satisfying that debt, request DWD to issue a nondelinquency certificate, which the license holder or applicant may then present to have the license reinstated, unless there are other grounds for not reinstating the license or for denying the application.

The bill includes the following within the definition of licensing department: the Department of Administration; the Board of Commissioners of Public Lands; the Department of Children and Families; the Government Accountability Board; the Department of Financial Institutions; the Department of Health Services; the Department of Natural Resources; the Department of Public Instruction; the Department of Revenue; the Department of Safety and Professional Services; the Office of the Commissioner of Insurance; and the Department of Transportation. The bill applies to various licenses administered by the aforementioned licensing departments.

The bill allows DWD to deny an application for or revoke various licenses administered by DWD if the license holder or applicant is liable for delinquent UI contributions. Such a license holder or applicant has the same rights to review by DWD and to judicial review as do holders of or applicants for licenses administered by other licensing departments.

The bill also requests the Wisconsin Supreme Court to enter into a similar memorandum of understanding with DWD. If DWD determines that a licensed attorney or an applicant for a license to practice law is liable for delinquent UI contributions, DWD may send the attorney or applicant a notice of that determination. The attorney or applicant has the same rights to a hearing and judicial review as do other license holders or applicants. However, DWD may not send the supreme court a certification of UI contribution delinquency until the attorney or applicant has exercised or exhausted his or her full rights to judicial review. If the determination is upheld following the holder or applicant's exercise or exhaustion of rights to judicial review, DWD may then certify to the supreme court that the attorney or applicant is liable for delinquent UI contributions. The supreme court may then decide whether to suspend, revoke, or deny the attorney's or applicant's license to practice law.

Financial record matching program

Currently, the Departments of Children and Families, Revenue, and Health Services (departments) operate financial records matching programs whereby the departments, for various asset verification or determination purposes, match data possessed by the departments with the records of financial institutions. This bill establishes a similar financial records matching program with DWD to allow DWD to identify the assets of persons who are delinquent in paying debts related to the UI program (UI debtors).

Under the program, financial institutions doing business in this state must enter into agreements with DWD to participate in a financial institution matching option or a state matching option. DWD may pay such a financial institution up to $125 per calendar quarter for participating.

Under the financial institution matching option, at least once every calendar quarter DWD sends information to the financial institution, including names, addresses, and social security numbers, about UI debtors. The financial institution determines whether any UI debtor has an ownership interest in an account at the financial institution and, if so, sends DWD information about the account, such as the type, number, and balance.

Under the state matching option, at least once every calendar quarter the financial institution sends DWD information about accounts maintained at the financial institution, including the name and social security number of each person having an ownership interest in each account. On the basis of that information, DWD determines whether any UI debtor has an ownership interest in an account at the financial institution and, if so, may request further information from the financial institution, including the person's address of record and the account balance.

The bill prohibits DWD from disclosing or retaining information concerning account holders who are not UI debtors; prohibits employees, agents, officers, and directors of financial institutions from disclosing or retaining information concerning UI debtors; and prohibits both DWD and financial institutions from using any information received under the program for any purpose not related to the program. The bill provides penalties for any employee, agent, officer, or director of a financial institution who violates any of the prohibitions. The bill also provides that a financial institution is not liable for disclosing financial information, or for taking any other action, in compliance with the program.

Tardy filing fees

Currently, each employer must file a quarterly report with DWD identifying the name of and wages paid to each employee who is employed by the employer in employment covered by the UI law during the most recent calendar quarter. With limited exceptions, if an employer is delinquent in filing the report, the employer must pay a tardy filing fee of $50. Revenue from tardy filing fees is used for various purposes to support the UI program. This bill increases the tardy filing fee to $100 or $20 per employee, whichever is greater, but provides that if the employer files the report within 30 days of its due date, the fee remains at $50.

Work search audits of claimants

The bill requires DWD to conduct random audits on claimants for regular UI benefits to assess compliance with the UI law's work search requirement. The bill requires DWD to include in its annual fraud report that is presented to the Council on Unemployment Insurance information about these audits, including the number of audits conducted in the previous year and the results of those audits.

Online portal for filing complaints

The bill requires DWD to maintain a portal on the Internet that allows employers and claimants to log in and file complaints with DWD related to the administration of the UI law.

Submittal dates for departmental reports

Currently, on or about January 15 of each odd-numbered year, the secretary of workforce development submits to the governor and legislative leaders a statement of UI financial outlook, which contains information relating to the current and projected fiscal condition of the UI program, recommendations for any changes in the UI law, and a report of the deliberations of the Council on Unemployment Insurance (council) and any position of the council concerning the proposed changes. In addition, on or about February 15 of each year, DWD must furnish to the council a report summarizing DWD's activities related to detection and prosecution of UI fraud during the preceding year. This bill separates the report of the fiscal condition of the UI program and recommended changes in the UI law from the report of the deliberations and position of the council and requires submittal of the former on or about April 15 of each odd-numbered year and of the latter on or about May 15 of each odd-numbered year. The bill also requires submittal of the report concerning fraud on or about March 15 of each year.

The bill authorizes the creation of three GPR-funded positions in DWD for the investigation of UI fraud and appropriates the necessary moneys to fund the positions.

Social security numbers maintained by DOT

Under current law, an individual who applies to the Department of Transportation (DOT) for vehicle title, for a motor vehicle operator's license or an identification card, or for registration as a motor vehicle dealer must, with limited exceptions, state his or her social security number on the application. DOT is generally required to maintain the confidentiality of these social security numbers but may disclose these social security numbers in limited circumstances, including to the Department of Children and Families and DOR for specified purposes.

This bill allows these social security numbers to also be disclosed to DWD for the sole purpose of enforcing or administering DWD's collection responsibilities related to UI.

UI handbook for employers

The bill requires DWD to create and keep up-to-date a handbook for employers for the purpose of informing employers who are subject to the UI law about the provisions and requirements of the UI law. The handbook must include all of the following: 1) information about the function and purpose of UI; 2) a description of the rights and responsibilities of employers under the UI law, including the rights and responsibilities associated with hearings to establish eligibility for benefits under the law; 3) a description of the circumstances under which claimants are eligible and ineligible for UI benefits under the UI law; and 4) disclaimers explaining that the contents of the handbook may not be relied upon as legally enforceable and that adherence to the contents does not guarantee a particular result for a decision on a UI matter. DWD must make the handbook available on the Internet and must, for a fee, distribute printed copies of the handbook to employers who so request.

Electronic database of decisions

The bill requires DWD to maintain a searchable, electronic database of significant decisions made by the labor and industry review commission on UI matters for the use of the attorneys employed by DWD.

and other employees

Initial training and continuing education for appeal tribunals (ALJs) employed or appointed by DWD to hear UI appeals to prepare them to perform their duties and also provides that DWD must require those individuals to satisfy continuing education requirements, as prescribed by DWD.

Due date for successorship applications

Currently, with certain exceptions, if a business is transferred from one employer to another employer, the transferee may, under certain conditions, request that DWD treat it as a successor for purposes of UI experience, including contribution (tax) and benefit liability. A successorship application must be received by DWD on or before the contribution payment due date for the first full quarter following the date of the transfer. This bill permits DWD to accept an application not more than 90 days after its due date if the transferee satisfies DWD that its application was late as a result of excusable neglect.

Standard affidavit form

This bill directs DWD to prescribe by rule a standard affidavit form that may be used by parties to UI administrative appeals and to make the form available to employers and claimants. Use of the form by a party does not eliminate the right of an opposing party to cross examine the affiant concerning the facts asserted in the affidavit.

Because this bill creates a new crime or revises a penalty for an existing crime, the Joint Review Committee on Criminal Penalties may be requested to prepare a report concerning the proposed penalty and the costs or savings that are likely to result if the bill is enacted.

For further information see the state and local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

18 If a claimant uses an agent to engage in any transaction with the department using 19 the claimant's security credentials, the claimant is responsible for the actions of the 20 agent. If a claimant who created security credentials or the claimant's authorized
21 agent divulges the credentials to another person, or fails to take adequate measures

18 assignment during that week.

19 b. That the claimant ^{was not informed of the requirement to contact the temporary help company or} had ^{other} good cause for his or her failure to contact the 20 temporary help company for an assignment during that week.

21 3. If a claimant who was last employed by a temporary help company contacts
22 the temporary help company during a given week for an assignment, that contact

7 of requalification, the employee's weekly benefit rate shall be that rate which would
8 have been paid had the termination not occurred. This paragraph does not preclude 9 an employee from establishing a benefit year by using the base period wages paid by 10 the employer from which the employee voluntarily terminated, if the employee is 11 qualified to establish a benefit year under s. 108.06 (2) (a).
