Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, with certain exceptions, if a person is convicted of a crime a court may withhold sentencing of the person or may impose a sentence but stay its execution and, in either case, place the person on probation. The court may impose conditions of probation. If a person violates a condition of probation, the person's probation may be revoked.

Under current law, a person who is released from confinement in a prison to parole or to extended supervision is subject to conditions set by the parole commission or by the Department of Corrections (DOC). If a person violates one of these conditions, his or her parole or extended supervision may be revoked and the person may be returned to prison.

This bill specifies that a person who is placed on probation or a person who is released from incarceration to parole or extended supervision is subject to having his or her person, residence, and any property under his or her control searched by a law enforcement officer at any time if the officer reasonably suspects that the person is committing, is about to commit, or has committed a crime or a violation of a condition of probation or release. Under the bill, a law enforcement officer may not conduct the search in an arbitrary, capricious, or harassing manner and must notify DOC as soon as practical after he or she conducts the search.

For further information see the state and local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
