Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

The bill creates exceptions to the preemption of state law over local zoning ordinances relating to borrow sites and material disposal sites. Under the bill, preemption does not occur with respect to any residential area that has more than 500 residents living within a one-mile radius of a material disposal site. The bill also specifies that a political subdivision is not preempted from exercising any authority to regulate, by ordinance, the hours of operation of, or noise or traffic volume relating to, any borrow site or material disposal site. Finally, the bill specifies that DOT makes the determination as to whether criteria are satisfied that give rise to the preemption of zoning ordinances as applied to borrow sites and material disposal sites.

The bill has no fiscal impact on the Department.
