Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, in certain counties, Family Care and the self-directed services option known as IRIS, among other programs, provide community-based, long-term care services to individuals who meet certain functional and financial criteria and who are either frail elders or adults with physical or developmental disabilities. In each geographic area in which the Family Care benefit is available the Department of Health Services (DHS) contracts with an aging and disability resource center to provide information and determine eligibility for Family Care and a care management organization (CMO) to administer the Family Care benefit. DHS may contract with a county, a long-term care district, a governing body of a tribe or band or the Great Lakes Inter-Tribal Council, a joint association of those entities, or a private organization to be a CMO. Under current law, if DHS proposes to contract with an entity to administer the Family Care benefit in geographic areas in which, in the aggregate, resides more than 29 percent of the state population that is eligible for the Family Care benefit, DHS must first submit the proposed contract to the Joint Committee on Finance (JCF). DHS may enter into the proposed contract only if JCF approves.

This bill requires DHS to do all of the following for residents of Brown, Door, Kewaunee, Marinette, Menominee, Oconto, and Shawano counties: contract with a resource center such that its services are available to residents of at least one of those counties before July 1, 2015; contract with a CMO to administer the Family Care benefit such that the benefit is available to residents of at least one of those counties on July 1, 2015; and provide services under IRIS such that services are available to residents of at least one of those counties on July 1, 2015. DHS must enter contracts and provide services for residents of all of those counties by July 1, 2016. Under the bill, DHS is not required to obtain approval from JCF to enter these contracts or provide these services to residents of those seven counties.
