This figure shows eight examples of specific service signs. They are rectangular blue signs with white borders and lettering.

An asterisk is to the left of the note “See Section 2F.07 for option of putting exit number on a separate plaque instead of on the sign.”

The first illustration is labeled “SINGLE-EXIT INTERCHANGE (ONE SERVICE).” It is shown as a horizontal rectangular sign with the words “GAS – EXIT 44” above six blank horizontal rectangular panels arranged in two horizontal rows of three panels each. An asterisk is shown to the right of this sign.

The second illustration is labeled “SINGLE-EXIT INTERCHANGE (TWO SERVICES).” It is shown as a horizontal rectangular sign divided horizontally by a white line. On the top half, the words “GAS – EXIT 211” are shown above three blank horizontal rectangular panels in one horizontal row. On the bottom half, the words “LODGING – EXIT 211” are shown above three blank horizontal rectangular panels in one horizontal row. An asterisk is shown to the right of this sign. To the right of this sign, the word “OR” is shown and another sign. This is shown as a vertical rectangular sign divided vertically by a white line. On the left half, the word “GAS” is shown above three blank horizontal rectangular panels in one vertical row. On the right half, the word “LODGING” is shown above three blank horizontal rectangular panels in one vertical row. Below both vertical panels, a horizontal rectangular panel is shown the width of the sign with the words “EXIT 211.” An asterisk is shown to the right of this sign.

The third illustration is labeled “LOGO PANEL” and is shown as a horizontal rectangular panel with the words “MARTIN’S HOTEL” on two lines.

Specific Information Signs (SIS)

Specific information Signs (SIS) provide motorists with directional information for motorist services. In Wisconsin, only certain routes (interstates, and most freeways and expressways) have been designated as SIS highways.

Qualifying motorist services.

Specific information signs may only include business signs for the following categories of motorist services: “gas, food, lodging, camping, and attractions.” Wisconsin law was recently changed authorizing the “attractions,” category. The rules and eligibility requirements to implement that change are under development. Applications for participation in the attractions category are not being accepted at this time. After the eligibility criteria and rules are completed, expected to occur late Spring or early Summer 2007, there will be a publicly announced application period for attractions.

To qualify for display of gas, food, lodging, or camping on a specific information sign or to find out more information, call 1-800-345-5772 or go to the following website:
