2. Statutory Authority

Statutes Interpreted: ss. 101.02 (1), and 101.82 (2m) and 101.84 (3), Stats., as created by 2007 Wisconsin Act 63.

3. Related Statute or Rule

None

4. Explanation of Agency Authority

Section 101.82 (1), Stats., grants the Department of Commerce general authority for protecting the health, safety and welfare of the public by establishing reasonable and effective safety standards for the installation, repair and maintenance of electrical wiring. Section 101.82 (2m), Stats., directs the Department to establish an inspection program for electrical wiring.

5. Summary of Proposed Rules

Primarily, the proposed rules establish a state wide inspection program for electrical wiring installations for farms, public buildings and places of employment. The program will require electrical permits to be obtained for new electrical services, new electrical feeders and new branch circuits. The permits will result in electrical inspections being conducted before the wiring is to be energized and concealed. A final inspection will also be required once the installation is completed. Permits are to be obtained from commercial building inspection agencies that will provide the inspections. Inspection agencies will be either municipalities or third party independent entities as designated by the Department. The cost of the permits and the resulting inspections will be determined by the respective enforcing municipal inspection agency or by the state contract procurement process when involving an independent building inspection agency. The inspections will be conducted by certified commercial electric inspectors. The rules do not restrict municipalities from enacting a more robust permitting and inspection program.

The proposed rules also establish plan submittal requirements for proposed fire pump installations regulated under section 695 of the adopted National Electrical Code.

The proposed rules also rearrange the material and subchapters within chapter Comm 16.

6. Summary of, and Comparison with, Existing or Proposed Federal Regulations

An internet search on U.S. federal regulations and U.S. federal register yielded no results regarding inspection of electrical wiring installations.

7. Comparison with Rules in Adjacent States

Illinois: Illinois does not administer a state electrical inspection program.

Iowa: Iowa is to implement an electrical inspection program as of March 1, 2009. Inspections are required of new electrical installations for commercial and industrial applications, public-use buildings and facilities, and residential applications in excess of single-family and new electrical service equipment for single-family applications. Permits are required to commence electrical installations. Inspections are to be conducted by state inspectors or by certified local inspectors.

Michigan: With the exception of farms and universities, Michigan requires electrical permits and inspections for electrical installations costing more than $100. The inspections are typically conducted by state certified electrical inspectors for municipalities that meet state minimum requirements. Where municipal inspection is not provided state inspectors conduct the inspections.

Minnesota: In Minnesota, all new electrical wiring installations are subject to inspection with the exception of minor repairs. Requests for inspections are to be made by the person responsible of the installation to an enforcing municipality recognized by the state or the state for non-enforcing municipalities. State electrical inspections are conducted by contracted inspectors under the oversight of regional state representatives. All inspectors are either licensed journeyman or master electricians.

8. Summary of Factual Data and Analytical Methodologies

The proposed rules for a state wide electrical inspection program were developed based upon the following:

- The mandates and the objectives of 2007 Wisconsin Act 63 with respect to electrical inspections.
- The state wide inspection program for the construction of new one- and two family dwellings.

- Current municipal electrical inspection schemes as well other state programs besides the four bordering states.

A working draft of the proposed rules was shared with the Electrical Code Advisory Council for their input. The Council's membership includes electrical contractors and municipal inspectors.

9. Effect on Small Business including an Analysis and Supporting Documents Used to Determine the Effect or in Preparation of Economic Impact Report.

Pursuant to 2007 Wisconsin Act 63, the proposed electrical inspection program for farms, public buildings and places of employment will affect all electrical contractors installing electrical wiring in and for such establishments as well the owners or tenants of these establishments. The rules will require obtaining permits before electrical wiring installations commence for farms, public buildings and places of employment. The issuance of the permits will result in periodic construction inspections by enforcing municipal or independent building inspection agencies during the electrical wiring installation. The cost of the permits and the resulting inspections will be determined by the respective enforcing municipal inspection agency or by the state contract procurement process when involving an independent building inspection agency. Many of the more populous municipalities in the state currently administer electrical permit and inspection program. Municipal electrical permits and inspections are typically determined on the basis of a base fee plus a cost for each electrical opening which varies with the size and type of building and occupancy. The Department does not believe that the proposed rules will increase the effect on small businesses over that imposed by the Act.

An economic impact report has not been required pursuant to s. 227.137, Stats.
