Detailed description of the object of the proposed rule

The proposed rule will make changes to s. DWD 80.32, relating to minimum permanent partial disability ratings. 2015 Wis. Act 180 directs the Department to establish minimum permanent disability ratings for amputation levels, losses of motion, sensory losses, and surgical procedures resulting from injuries for which permanent partial disability is claimed. Under Act 180, the Department is required to review and revise the ratings as necessary to reflect advances in the science of medicine.

Description of the existing policies relevant to the rule, new policies to be included in the rule, and an analysis of the policy alternatives

Section DWD 80.32 currently provides the minimum percentages of loss of use for amputation levels, losses of motion, sensory losses, and surgical procedures for permanent disabilities to employees who sustained compensable work-related injuries. The minimum permanent partial disability ratings primarily cover some amputation levels, losses of motion, sensory losses and surgical procedures to the upper extremities including the shoulder, lower extremities, and back. The proposed rule will update section DWD 80.32 to provide clarity and revise the minimum permanent partial disability ratings to reflect advances in the science of medicine as recommended by a medical advisory committee established under s. 227.13, Stats. The medical advisory committee is composed of physicians practicing in one or more areas of specialization or treating disciplines within the medical profession. For about the last five years, the Department has met quarterly with the medical advisory committee for the committee to review and recommend revisions of the current minimum permanent partial disability ratings based on loss of function.

The policy alternative is to do nothing. If the Department does not move forward with the proposed rule, the rule will not be in conformity with state statutes. In addition, the current ratings may not accurately reflect typical losses of function based on current state of the art of medical practice.

Detailed explanation of statutory authority for the rule (including the statutory citation and the language)

Section 102.44 (4m) (a), Stats.

"The department shall promulgate rules establishing minimum permanent disability ratings for amputation levels, losses of motion, sensory losses, and surgical procedures resulting from injuries for which permanent partial disability is claimed under sub. (3) or (4)."

Estimate the amount of time that state employees will spend developing the rule and of other resources necessary to develop the rule

The estimated time that state employees will spend developing the rule is 200 hours.
