CHAPTER 55.

[Published February 25, 1873.]

AN ACT to amend chapter one hundred and fifty-six of the general laws of 1872, entitled "an act to authorize the taking of lands for the use of charitable, educational and correctional institutions of this state."

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

Amended.

May apply for order restraining injury to timbered lands.

Number of section changed.

SECTION 1. Chapter one hundred and fifty-six of the general laws of 1872, entitled "an act to authorize the taking of lands for the use of charitable, educational and correctional institutions of this state," is hereby amended by adding after section six of said chapter the following, which shall be numbered section seven of said chapter: Section 7. Upon the making of the application mentioned in section two of the act to which this act is amendatory, the said board of regents, board of managers or state prison commissioners, as the case may be, may also apply to the judge of the circuit court or county judge of the proper county, for an order restraining the owners of the lands required, from cutting or injuring any of the timber or wood growing thereon, during the pendency of said proceedings, and it shall be lawful for such judge to grant such injunctive order, if it be made to appear that the destruction of said wood or timber will seriously impair the value of said land for the uses for which it is required.

SECTION 2. Section seven of the act to which this act is amendatory shall be and is hereby numbered section eight.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.
