CHAPTER 223.

AN ACT to protect all citizens in their civil and legal rights.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

To protect citizens in the enjoyment of civil and legal rights at public places.

SECTION 1. That all persons within this state shall be entitled to the full and equal enjoyment of the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of inns, restaurants, saloons, barber shops, eating houses, public conveyances on land and water, theaters, and all other places of public accommodation or amusement, subject only to the conditions and limitations established by law and applicable alike to all persons of every race and color.

Penalty for violating the law.

SECTION 2. That any person who shall violate the foregoing section or any part thereof, by denying to any person, except for reasons by law applicable alike to all persons, the full enjoyment of any of the accommodations, advantages, facilities or privileges enumerated in said section, or by aiding or inciting such denial, or by requiring any person to pay a larger sum than the regular rate charged by such person for such or any of such advantages, facilities, accommodations or privileges, shall for every such offense, be liable to the person aggrieved thereby, in a sum not less than five dollars, as damages, with costs, to be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction in the county where said offense was committed, and shall also, for every such offense be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be fined not more than one hundred dollars, with costs, or shall be imprisoned in the county jail for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment; provided, however, that a judgment in favor of the party aggrieved or punishment upon an information filed, shall be a bar to either prosecution respectively.

SECTION 3. This act shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and publication.

Approved April 13, 1895.
