Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, no member of the police force of a first class city (presently only Milwaukee) may be suspended or discharged without pay or benefits until the matter that is the subject of the suspension or discharge is disposed of by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners (first class city board) or the time for an appeal passes without an appeal being made. Also under current law, no first class city police chief or fire chief, or fire fighter, may be deprived of compensation during the time he or she is suspended preceding an investigation or trial, unless the charges are sustained. Currently, no member of a police force or fire department of a second, third, or fourth class city may be deprived of compensation while suspended, pending disposition of the charges.

Also under current law, if the first class city board's decision upholding the discharge or suspension is reversed, the member must be reinstated to his or her former position in the department and is entitled to pay as if he or she was not suspended or discharged. Similar provisions apply to a second, third, or fourth class city police officer or fire fighter whose suspension or removal is reversed.

Under this substitute amendment, if a police officer of any class of city is charged with a misdemeanor or felony, the police chief must suspend the officer and the officer is deprived of compensation pending the disposition of the misdemeanor or felony charges. In first class cities, the police chief may also discharge an officer who is so charged. In second, third, and fourth class cities, a police chief may also seek the removal of an officer, by the board of police and fire commissioners (board), who is charged with a misdemeanor or felony. The substitute amendment also changes current law such that a 1st class city police chief or fire chief, as well as a fire fighter, who is charged with a misdemeanor or felony may be deprived of compensation during the period after he or she is charged preceding an investigation or trial.

The substitute amendment also provides that if the chief of a second, third, or fourth class city police or fire department communicates in writing to the board that an officer be removed and if the board takes no action on the communication, the chief's written communication is considered to be charges filed against the officer, and a suspension without pay, on the 181st day following the board's receipt of the written communication.

In all cases under the substitute amendment, if the charges filed against a suspended officer are dismissed, or if the officer is found not guilty of the charges, the officer is reinstated and is entitled to back pay.

Currently, if a first class city board receives a notice of appeal, it must schedule a trial within 5 and 15 days after service of the notice and copy of the complaint. This substitute amendment changes the time frame for scheduling a trial to within 90 and 120 days.

Currently, both the accused and the chief of a first class city department have the right to request up to a 15-day adjournment of the trial or investigation of the charges. Once such a request is made, it is granted automatically. Under the substitute amendment, the board may grant an adjournment, for cause, to either party.

This substitute amendment also repeals a provision that was enacted as part of the state budget, Wisconsin Act 20, that relates to dispute resolution procedures in a collective bargaining agreement between a municipal employer and certain municipal employees.

For further information see the state and local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
