7 (2r) of the statutes; relating to: delegation by a parent who has legal custody
8 of a child of powers regarding the care and custody of the child by a power of 9 attorney and granting rule-making authority.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Current law. Under current law, a parent may petition the court assigned to exercise jurisdiction under the Children’s Code (juvenile court) for the appointment of a guardian for the parent’s child. A guardian has the duty and authority to make important decisions in matters having a permanent effect on the life and development of the child and the duty to be concerned about the child’s general welfare. A guardian's authority includes the authority to consent to major medical, psychiatric, and surgical treatment for the child and the child obtaining a motor vehicle operator's license. A guardian also has the rights and responsibilities of legal custody, which include the right and duty to protect, train, and discipline the child and to provide food, shelter, legal services, education, and ordinary medical and dental care for the child.

Delegation of care and custody of child. This substitute amendment permits a parent who has legal custody of a child, by a power of attorney that is properly executed by all parents who have legal custody of the child, to delegate to another person (agent), for a period not to exceed one year, any of his or her powers regarding the care and custody of the child, except the power to consent to the marriage or adoption of the child, the performance or inducement of an abortion on or for the child, the termination of parental rights to the child, or the enlistment of the child in the U.S. armed forces. The substitute amendment provides that such a delegation of powers does not deprive the parent of any of his or her powers regarding the care and custody of the child and does not prevent or supersede: 1) an investigation of suspected or threatened abuse or neglect of the child under the child abuse and neglect reporting law; 2) the child from being taken into and held in custody under the Children's Code or the Juvenile Justice Code; 3) a juvenile court intake worker from conducting an intake inquiry to determine whether the available facts establish juvenile court jurisdiction over the child; or 4) the juvenile court from exercising its child or juvenile in need of protection or services jurisdiction over the child. The juvenile court's exercising of that jurisdiction, however, does not preclude a delegation of powers that is not in conflict with a juvenile court order granted in the exercise of that jurisdiction.

Background checks. Under current law, certain entities that provide care for children, such as foster homes and group homes, may not employ or contract with a caregiver or permit a nonclient resident to reside at the entity if the caregiver or nonclient resident has been convicted or adjudicated delinquent for committing a serious crime, as defined under current law, or has abused or neglected a child or person receiving care from the person (client), unless the person shows that he or she has been rehabilitated. This substitute amendment requires an organization that facilitates delegations of the care and custody of children to agents as provided in the substitute amendment (organization) to conduct a criminal history and child and client abuse record search with respect to a proposed agent and any nonclient resident of a proposed agent. If that search indicates that the proposed agent or any nonclient resident of the proposed agent has been so convicted or adjudicated or has abused a child or client, the organization may not facilitate a delegation of the care and custody of a child to the proposed agent.

Foster home license exemption. Under current law, a person who provides care and maintenance for four or fewer children must obtain a license to operate a foster home. Current law, however, permits a relative or guardian of a child to provide care and maintenance for a child without obtaining a license to operate a foster home. This substitute amendment exempts an agent from the requirement that the agent obtain a license to operate a foster home in order to provide care and maintenance for the child. The substitute amendment, however, prohibits a parent from placing a child in a foster home, group home, or inpatient treatment facility by means of a delegation of powers as provided in the substitute amendment. Under the substitute amendment, those placements may be made only by means of a juvenile court order or a voluntary agreement or admission as provided under current law.

Permissive child abuse reporting. Under current law, certain persons who have reasonable cause to suspect that a child seen in the course of professional duties has been abused or neglected or who have reason to believe that such a child has been threatened with abuse or neglect and that abuse or neglect will occur must report that suspected or threatened abuse or neglect to the county department of human services or social services, the sheriff, or the local police department. Any other person may report suspected or threatened abuse or neglect of a child. This substitute amendment exempts an agent from the requirement that he or she report any suspected or threatened abuse or neglect of the child. Instead, the substitute amendment permits an agent to report any suspected or threatened abuse or neglect of the child.

Rules. Finally, the substitute amendment requires the Department of Children and Families to promulgate rules establishing certain requirements and expectations with respect to an organization and an agent to whom delegation of the care and custody of a child is facilitated by an organization. Those rules include training requirements for the staff of an organization and an agent, screening and assessment requirements for a proposed agent, the expectations of an agent with respect to the care and custody of the child, and certain monitoring and communication requirements for an organization.

2 48.979 Delegation of power by parent. (1) (a) A parent who has legal 3 custody of a child, by a power of attorney that is properly executed by all parents who 4 have legal custody of the child, may delegate to an agent, for a period not to exceed 5 one year, any of his or her powers regarding the care and custody of the child, except 6 the power to consent to the marriage or adoption of the child, the performance or 7 inducement of an abortion on or for the child, the termination of parental rights to 8 the child, or the enlistment of the child in the U.S. armed forces. A delegation of 9 powers under this paragraph does not deprive the parent of any of his or her powers
10 regarding the care and custody of the child.

11 (b) If a delegation of powers to an agent under par. (a) is facilitated by an entity,
12 as defined in s. 48.685 (1) (b), that entity shall obtain the information specified in s.
13 48.685 (2) (b) 1. with respect to the proposed agent and any nonclient resident, as 14 defined in s. 48.685 (1) (bm), of the proposed agent. Subject to s. 48.685 (5), if that 15 information indicates that the proposed agent may not be a contractor, as defined in 16 s. 48.685 (1) (ar), of the entity or that a nonclient resident of the proposed agent may 17 not be permitted to reside with the proposed agent for a reason specified in s. 48.685
18 (4m) (b) 1. to 5., the entity may not facilitate a delegation of powers to the proposed 19 agent under par. (a). The entity shall provide the department of health services with 20 information about each person who is denied a delegation of powers or permission
21 to reside under this paragraph for a reason specified in s. 48.685 (4m) (b) 1. to 5.

23 home, group home, or inpatient treatment facility by means of a delegation of powers
24 under par. (a). Those placements may be made only by means of a court order or as

3 1. An agency, a sheriff, or a police department from receiving and investigating
4 a report of suspected or threatened abuse or neglect of the child under s. 48.981.

5 2. The child from being taken into and held in custody under ss. 48.19 to 48.21

10 in conflict with a court order granted in the exercise of that jurisdiction.

11 (e) A parent who has delegated his or her powers regarding the care and 12 custody of a child under par. (a) may revoke that delegation at any time by executing
13 a written revocation and notifying the agent in writing of the revocation. A written 14 revocation invalidates the delegation of powers except with respect to acts already 15 taken in reliance on the delegation of powers.

17 substantially conforms to the following form:
