Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, a person may not divide a parcel of land into 5 or more lots of 1 1/2 acres or less in area for the purpose of sale or building development (subdivide the land) unless the person has the land surveyed and a plat (map) of the land reviewed and approved by specified local and state agencies. Before July 1, 1996, the department of agriculture, trade and consumer protection (DATCP) is one of the state agencies with plat review responsibilities. The 1995-97 budget act transfers DATCP's plat review responsibilities to the department of development (renamed commerce) on July 1, 1996. This bill restores those plat review responsibilities to DATCP.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
