Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Current law provides that no person, including an individual granted a license or permit to practice audiology by the hearing and speech examining board (examining board) in the department of regulation and licensing, may engage in the practice of selling or fitting hearing aids without first obtaining a hearing instrument specialist license from the examining board. "Hearing aid" is defined, in part, as a wearable instrument or device designed to aid impaired hearing. An applicant for a hearing instrument specialist license must pass an examination that includes certain practical tests of proficiency in fitting hearing aids. Current law also requires a hearing instrument specialist to provide a receipt to a purchaser of a hearing aid that includes certain information about the hearing aid, such as whether the hearing aid is used or reconditioned. In addition, a hearing instrument specialist who sells a hearing aid must give the purchaser a personal guarantee with terms that are at least identical to the manufacturer's guarantee.

This bill allows a person granted an audiologist license by the examining board to sell or fit hearing aids without having to first obtain a hearing instrument specialist license. A hearing aid that an audiologist is allowed to sell or fit under the bill has the same definition as a hearing aid under current law, except that it also includes implantable instruments and devices. The bill also changes the requirements that an applicant for an audiologist license must satisfy by requiring him or her to pass, in addition to an audiology examination required under current law, the proficiency tests required under current law for a hearing instrument specialist license. In addition, the bill requires an audiologist who fits or sells hearing aids to comply with the same requirements that apply to hearing instrument specialists with respect to a hearing aid receipt and a seller's guarantee.

This bill also requires the examining board to promulgate rules that require a person to complete continuing education in order to renew a hearing instrument specialist, audiologist or speech-language pathologist license. The rules must require such a person to complete 20 hours of continuing education every 2 years. In addition, the rules must require each person licensed as a hearing instrument specialist, audiologist or speech-language pathologist to complete a specified educational program or course of study to ensure competence with respect to a matter if the examining board has received a significant number of consumer complaints about the matter or if the examining board otherwise determines that such a requirement is necessary. Such rules must require the examining board to waive this requirement if, prior to the program or course of study, a person passes an examination administered by the examining board on the matter.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
