Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, if a school board adopts an initial resolution to hold a referendum on school district borrowing, the school district clerk must publish a notice of this initial resolution that states, among other things, the maximum amount proposed to be borrowed. This bill requires the notice to include the total debt service on the amount proposed to be borrowed, the cost to issue the bonds, any additional amounts the school board estimates will be necessary to effect the purpose of the borrowing and an estimate of the net fiscal effect that the purpose of the borrowing will have on the school district's eligibility for or receipt of state or federal aid.
