4 227.265 of the statutes; relating to: rule-making procedures and modifying
5 and creating administrative rules related to long-term care insurance.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Rule-making procedures

Current law sets forth a procedure for the promulgation of administrative rules (rules). Generally, that procedure consists of the following steps:

1. The agency planning to promulgate the rule prepares a statement of the scope of the proposed rule, which the governor and the agency head must approve before any state employee or official may perform any activity in connection with the drafting of the proposed rule.

2. The agency drafts the proposed rule, together with an economic impact analysis, plain language analysis, and fiscal estimate for the proposed rule, and submits those materials to the Legislative Council Staff for review.

3. Subject to certain exceptions, a public hearing is held on the proposed rule.

4. The final draft of the proposed rule is submitted to the governor for approval.

5. The final draft of the proposed rule, together with an economic impact analysis, plain language analysis, and fiscal estimate for the proposed rule, are submitted to the legislature for review by one standing committee in each house and by the Joint Committee for Review of Administrative Rules.

6. The proposed rule is filed with the Legislative Reference Bureau (LRB) for publication in the Wisconsin Administrative Code (code) and the Wisconsin Administrative Register (register), and, subject to certain exceptions, the rule becomes effective on the first day of the first month beginning after publication.

Under this bill, if a bill that repeals or modifies a rule is enacted, the ordinary rule-making procedures under current law do not apply. Instead, the LRB must publish the repeal or modification, in the code and the register, and the repeal or modification, subject to certain exceptions, takes effect on the first day of the first month beginning after publication.

Compensating intermediaries for sale of long-term care insurance

Under current rules promulgated by the Office of the Commissioner of Insurance, an insurer may provide compensation to an insurance intermediary or other representative, and the intermediary or other representative may accept compensation, for the sale of a long-term care policy or certificate only if 1) the first-year compensation for the sale does not exceed 400 percent of the compensation paid in the second year or period for the sale or for servicing the policy or certificate and 2) the compensation provided in subsequent years is the same as provided in the second year or period and is provided for at least five renewal years. The current rules prohibit any person from providing compensation to an intermediary, representative, or producer, and prohibit any intermediary, representative, or producer from accepting compensation, relating to the replacement of a long-term care policy or certificate for which the compensation is greater than the renewal compensation provided by the replacing insurer for the replacing policy or certificate.

The bill removes from the rules references to other representatives or procedures while retaining references to intermediaries. Under the bill, instead of the current compensation restrictions, an insurer may compensate an intermediary, and an intermediary may accept compensation, for the sale of a long-term care policy or certificate only if the compensation provided in the second year or period and subsequent years is the same and is provided for at least five renewal years. The bill adds an exemption to the prohibition on certain compensation for replacement of a long-term care policy. Under that exemption, a person may provide to an intermediary, and an intermediary may accept, compensation relating to the replacement of a long-term care policy or certificate for which the compensation is not greater than the first-year compensation provided by the replacing insurer for the replacing policy or certificate, if certain criteria that are created in the bill and certain requirements that are in the current rules are satisfied.
