1 AN ACT to create 30.2005 of the statutes; relating to: an exemption from permit
2 requirements for certain riparian owners who remove material from the bed of 3 a navigable water.

Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill allows a person who owns waterfront property (riparian owner) to remove certain material from the bed of an inland navigable water without obtaining a permit from the Department of Natural Resources. No permit is required if the removal meets certain requirements, including that the removal occurs within the riparian owner's riparian zone, which is a specified area extending waterward of the shoreline; the removal is limited to a specified amount of material; the removal occurs in a navigable water that is affected by a man-made impoundment; the material removed is unconsolidated sediment that was deposited after the navigable water was affected by the impoundment; and the removal is undertaken in order to navigate from the shoreline of the riparian property to a specified water depth.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

4 SECTION 1. 30.2005 of the statutes is created to read:
5 30.2005 Permit exemption; removal of material from beds of navigable
