Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

1997 Wisconsin Act 283, often referred to as the “truth in sentencing” act, created the criminal penalties study committee (committee) and directed the committee to study the classification of criminal offenses in the criminal code, the penalties for all felonies and certain misdemeanors and issues relating to the implementation of the changes in sentencing made by the “truth in sentencing” act. The committee is also required to make recommendations on certain issues, such as the reclassification of felonies and certain misdemeanors and the creation of a sentencing guidelines commission. The committee must submit a report of its findings and recommendations to the legislature and the governor by April 30, 1999. This bill extends the deadline for the committee to submit its report to August 31, 1999.
