Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill makes several changes to current law regarding the practice of athletic trainers.

Under current law, no person may use the title “athletic trainer” or otherwise represent himself or herself as an athletic trainer unless the person is licensed by the athletic trainers affiliated credentialing board (board). Current law authorizes the board to grant two types of temporary licenses in addition to standard renewable licenses. A licensed athletic trainer may engage in athletic training only in accordance with an evaluation and treatment protocol established by the athletic trainer and approved by a physician who consults with the athletic trainer. Current law defines “athletic training” as doing any of the following: 1) preventing, recognizing, and evaluating athletic injuries; 2) managing and administering the initial treatment of athletic injuries; 3) giving emergency care or first aid for an athletic injury; or 4) rehabilitating and physically reconditioning athletic injuries. “Athletic injury” means an injury or illness that is sustained by an athlete as a result of, or that impedes or prevents an athlete from, participating in exercise, sports, games, or recreation. Additionally, current law permits a licensed athletic trainer to treat or rehabilitate an employee of the athletic trainer’s primary employer with an injury that is identical to an athletic injury and that has resulted from an occupational activity, if directed and supervised by a physician or chiropractor.

Currently, an evaluation and treatment protocol must require a licensed athletic trainer to notify the consulting physician as soon as possible if a person being treated by the athletic trainer sustains new injuries. Also under current law, if a licensed athletic trainer or the trainer’s consulting physician determines that a patient’s medical condition is beyond the scope of the athletic trainer’s practice, the athletic trainer must refer the patient to a licensed physician, physical therapist, podiatrist, chiropractor, or dentist who can provide appropriate treatment to the patient (referral requirement).

This bill deletes the current provisions authorizing the board to grant temporary licenses. The bill alters the definition of “athletic training” by replacing “athletic injury” with “injury or illness sustained while participating in physical activity” in the four activities that currently constitute athletic training. Under the bill, “physical activity” means vigorous participation in exercise, sports, games, recreation, wellness, fitness, or employment activities. The bill also creates two additional activities that constitute athletic training: 1) rehabilitating and physically reconditioning injuries or illnesses that impede or prevent an individual from participating in physical activity, if the individual recently participated in, and intends to return to participation in, physical activity, and 2) establishing or administering risk management, conditioning, and injury prevention programs.

The bill specifies that a licensed athletic trainer may provide athletic training to an individual without a referral, except that a licensee may not provide certain rehabilitation and reconditioning services in an outpatient rehabilitation setting unless the licensee has obtained a written referral for the individual from one of several types of health care practitioners specified in the bill.

The bill deletes the requirement that an evaluation and treatment protocol mandate notification of the consulting physician of new injuries, but does not affect the referral requirement. Under the bill, a licensed athletic trainer may treat or rehabilitate an employee with an injury or illness, if directed and supervised by a physician or chiropractor.
