Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, for purposes of the statute that deals with access to public places of accommodation or amusement, “service animal” is defined as a guide dog, signal dog, or other animal that is individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of a person with a disability. Under this bill, the definition is limited to include only a dog or miniature horse that is so trained.

Under the current open housing law, it is generally considered to be unlawful discrimination for a person to refuse to rent or sell housing to an individual who is vision, hearing, or mobility impaired, to evict such an individual from housing, to require extra compensation from such an individual for the continued ability to occupy housing, or to harass such an individual, if in any of these cases the individual keeps an animal that is specially trained to lead or assist him or her. An exception to this general rule applies to owner-occupied housing if the owner or a member of the owner’s family can demonstrate that he or she is allergic to such an animal.

Under the current open housing law, “animal” is not defined. Under the bill, “animal” is defined as a dog or miniature horse that is individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of a person who is vision, hearing, or mobility impaired.

SENATE BILL 661

This bill directs the Department of Administration to recommend to the legislature methods to increase the number of businesses owned by people who are blind or visually impaired that participate in the state contracting process.

This bill requires the Department of Health Services (DHS) to submit to the legislature a report on the Office of the Blind and Visually Impaired within DHS, which assists blind persons in adapting and adjusting to vision loss and in living independently.

This bill directs the Department of Public Instruction, in consultation with the Department of Health Services, to prepare a report recommending ways to improve the program that assists in the adjustment of adults who have recently become blind or visually impaired and submit it to the legislature.

This bill requires the Department of Safety and Professional Services and the Department of Transportation (DOT) to prepare a report relating to public signage and audible traffic signals to assist the blind.

This bill requires DOT to submit to the legislature a report that includes all of the following: 1) an evaluation of the effectiveness, in improving pedestrian safety, of the requirement that motorists yield a ten-foot safety distance to pedestrians using service animals or walking sticks associated with the visually impaired; 2) an evaluation of the effectiveness of DOT's promotion, education, and enforcement efforts related to this requirement and of the adequacy of the penalty for a violation of this requirement; and 3) DOT's recommendations to improve effectiveness under items 1 and 2.

This bill requests the Joint Legislative Council to study the Supervised Business Enterprise Program administered by the Department of Workforce Development (DWD) under which DWD's ultimate objective is to enable blind persons to operate their own businesses.
