

February 1, 1943, which limits the amount of total milk solids that may be used in frozen dairy foods to not more than 65 per cent of the milk solids used for such purposes during the previous year, and the probable imposition of further restrictions by the federal government affecting such foods and the dairy industry during the war emergency, have rendered it urgently imperative to modify the minimum milk fat content of ice cream as specified in this subsection, in order to keep available as large a supply of ice cream as possible for the consuming public. Because of this emergency the minimum percentages of milk fat specified in this subsection for the various types of ice cream are modified in the respective paragraphs as follows: in (a) from 13 to 10 per cent; in (b) from 11 to 8 per cent; in (c) from 11 to 8 per cent; in (d) from 11 to 8 per cent; in (e) from 13 to 10 per cent; in (f) from 11 to 8 per cent; in (g) from 13 to 10 per cent; in (h) from 11 to 8 per cent; and in (i) from 13 to 10 per cent and from 11 to 8 per cent respectively, but in no case shall ices and sherbet be mixed with the forms of ice cream above specified so that the milk fat content is less than herein prescribed. The modifications made by this paragraph shall be in effect until the present war is terminated, as proclaimed by the President or the Congress of the United States, and for a period of 6 months thereafter, unless sooner repealed.
