CHAPTER 15.

STRUCTURE OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH.

SUBCHAPTER I.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

15.001 DECLARATION OF POLICY. (1) THREE BRANCHES OF GOVERNMENT. The "republican form of government" guaranteed by the U.S. constitution contemplates the separation of powers within state government among the legislative, the executive and the judicial branches of the government. The legislative branch has the broad objective of determining policies and programs and review of program performance for programs previously authorized, the executive branch carries out the programs and policies and the judicial branch has the responsibility for adjudicating any conflicts which might arise from the interpretation or application of the laws. It is a traditional concept of American government that the 3 branches are to function separately, without intermingling of authority, except as specifically provided by law.

(2) GOALS OF EXECUTIVE BRANCH ORGANIZATION. (a) As the chief administrative officer of the state, the governor should be provided with the administrative facilities and the authority to carry out the functions of his office efficiently and effectively within the policy limits established by the legislature.

(b) The administrative agencies which comprise the executive branch should be consolidated into a reasonable number of departments and independent agencies consistent with executive capacity to administer effectively at all levels.

(c) The integration of the agencies in the executive branch should be on a functional basis, so that programs can be co-ordinated.

(d) Each agency in the executive branch should be assigned a name commensurate with the scope of its program responsibilities, and should be integrated into one of the departments or independent agencies of the executive branch as closely as the conflicting goals of administrative integration and responsiveness to the legislature will permit.

(3) GOALS OF CONTINUING REORGANIZATION. Structural reorganization should be a continuing process through careful executive and legislative appraisal of the placement of proposed new programs and the co-ordination of existing programs in response to changing emphasis or public needs, and should be consistent with the following goals:

(a) The organization of state government should assure its responsiveness to popular control. It is the goal of reorganization to improve legislative policy-making capability and to improve the administrative capability of the executive to carry out these policies.

(b) The organization of state government should facilitate communication between citizens and government. It is the goal of reorganization through co-ordination of related programs in function-oriented departments to improve public understanding of government programs and policies and to improve the relationships between citizens and administrative agencies.

(c) The organization of state government shall assure efficient and effective administration of the policies established by the legislature. It is the goal of reorganization to promote efficiency by improving the management and co-ordination of state services and by eliminating overlapping activities.

15.01 DEFINITIONS. In this chapter:

(1) "Department" means the principal administrative agency within the executive branch of Wisconsin state government, but does not include the independent agencies under subch. III.

(2) "Division," "bureau," "section" and "unit" means the subunits of a department, whether specifically created by law or created by the head of the department for the more economic and efficient administration and operation of the programs assigned to the department.

(4) "Commission" means a 3-man governing body in charge of a department or independent agency or of a division or other subunit within

(7) "Committee" means a part-time body appointed to study a specific problem and to recommend a solution or policy alternative with respect to that problem, and intended to terminate on the completion of its assignment. Because of their temporary nature, committees shall be created by session law rather than by statute.

(1) SEPARATE CONSTITUTIONAL OFFICES. The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state and state treasurer each head a staff to be termed the "office" of the respective constitutional officer, but the office of the governor shall be known as the "executive office."

Beginning on the effective date of this act all new appointments to commissions shall be for terms expiring on March 1 of an odd-numbered year; all new appointments to boards shall be for terms expiring on May 1 and shall, if the term is for an even number of years, expire in an odd-numbered year; and all new appointments to councils shall be for terms expiring on July 1 and shall, if the term is for an even number of years, expire in an odd-numbered year. SECTION 16. ACTIONS UNDER OBSOLETE TERMINOLOGY. Any action taken by a department or independent agency in valid pursuance of a power, duty or function vested or continued in such department or independent agency by chapter 75, laws of 1967, and taken on or before June 30, 1968, shall be deemed valid and taken in the name of the new department or independent agency even if the forms on which such action was certified, the seal by which such action was authenticated, or the title by which a specific officer was identified, were in terminology referring to a predecessor agency of such department or independent agency in existence on July 31, 1967.

The legislature declares that no statutory power, duty or function of an agency shall be deemed impliedly repealed for the sole reason that reference to it has been omitted in these sections. In the event of an unresolved dispute concerning the proper assignment of a statutory power, duty or function not enumerated in these sections to a unit of the executive branch created or continued by chapter 75, laws of 1967, chapter 75, laws of 1967 shall control and the dispute shall be resolved by the legislature's joint committee on finance. The decision of the joint committee on finance is final.

SECTION 18. EFFECT OF OTHER 1967 LAWS. It is the intent of the legislature that the structural and organizational patterns in the executive branch created by chapter 75, laws of 1967, and as further clarified by this act, and the names assigned to the several units of the executive branch by the 2 acts, shall be protected against unintended repeal by implication, resulting from legislation subsequently enacted but drafted in reliance on the terminology of the 1965 Wisconsin statutes.

(1) Any act which affects a statute setting forth the organizational detail for an agency shall, if that organizational detail is continued by a provision of subchapter II or III of chapter 15 of the statutes, created by this act, be deemed to affect in like manner that portion of chapter 15 containing such provision.

(2) Unless such legislation specifically refers to the provision of chapter 75, laws of 1967, or to a section of chapter 15 of the statutes, created by this act, which it is intended to supersede, any power, duty or function assigned by 1967 legislation to a unit of the executive branch, such legislation using terminology which properly identified the intended location of such power, duty or function in the structure of the executive branch as it existed on July 31, 1967, shall be assumed by the department or independent agency to which functionally similar powers, duties or functions were assigned by chapter 75, laws of 1967.

(3) Any unresolved conflicts under this section shall be reconciled by the legislature's joint committee on finance. The decision of the joint committee on finance is final.

SECTION 19. AGENCIES AND OFFICERS CONTINUED. Chapter 15 of the statutes, as created by SECTION 13 of this act, identifies the existing units of the executive branch. It does not create new units. All departments, independent agencies, commissions, boards, examining boards, councils and examining councils are continued. To the extent that chapter 15 duplicates provisions in other parts of the statutes, those provisions in the other parts become obsolete. Subsequent legislation to repeal such obsolete statutes, including sections which formerly created units of the executive branch in chapters of the statutes other than chapter 15, shall not affect the continued existence of such units, and shall not affect the rights of appointive officers to serve for the balance of their respective terms. After the effective date of this act, any intended repeal of an existing agency, and any intended modification of its original structure, shall be accomplished by repeal or amendment of the proper section of chapter 15 of the statutes, as created by this act.

Approved January 12, 1968.
