Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill makes various changes related to the military staff in the Department of Military Affairs. Currently, to be appointed adjutant general, the person must serve five years in the active Wisconsin national guard immediately preceding the appointment. Under this bill, the person appointed as adjutant general must serve at least five of the last seven years in the active Wisconsin national guard. The bill allows a person to be appointed as adjutant general from the ranks of the retired reserve if he or she has obtained the rank of at least brigadier general and remains eligible for the federal rank of at least major general.

The bill changes an army deputy assistant adjutant general to an assistant adjutant general. The bill provides that the deputy adjutants general hold the rank of brigadier general, unless federal recognition requires the rank of major general, and that assistant adjutants general may hold the rank of brigadier general. Under the bill, if a deputy adjutant general is absent due to military duties, the adjutant general may appoint an acting deputy adjutant general, and that appointment may be of one of the assistant adjutants general.

The bill also provides that the adjutant general has the authority to appoint persons to fill vacancies in the military staff of the governor.
