Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, the Interstate Compact on the Placement of Children provides procedures for sending a child from this state to another state, placing a child from this state in an institution in another state, bringing a child from another state into this state, and placing a child from another state in an institution in this state.

The bill also creates a new Interstate Compact for the Placement of Children that becomes effective when 35 states enact the compact. The compact applies to the interstate placement of a child who is subject to ongoing court jurisdiction in a sending state due to allegations or findings that the child has been abused, neglected, or deprived and to the interstate placement of a child as a preliminary step to a possible adoption. The compact also applies to the interstate placement of a child who has been adjudicated delinquent or unmanageable and who is subject to the ongoing court jurisdiction of a sending state if the placement of the child is not covered under another interstate compact such as the Interstate Compact for Juveniles or an assessment of the placement is not provided through another compact.

SENATE BILL 517

The compact, however, does not apply to: 1) the interstate placement of a child in a custody proceeding in which a public child placing agency is not a party so long as the placement is not for adoption; 2) the interstate placement of a child by his or her parent so long as the placement is not for adoption; 3) the interstate placement of a child with a relative by a relative who has the authority to make such a placement; or 4) the placement of a child with a noncustodial parent if the court in the sending state finds that the noncustodial parent has a substantial relationship with the child, finds that the placement is in the best interests of the child, and, for a placement in a proceeding in which a public child placing agency is a party, dismisses its jurisdiction over the proceeding. The compact also does not apply to: 1) a child who is entering or leaving the United States for purposes of adoption; 2) cases in which a child living overseas with his or her family, at least one member of which is in the U.S. armed services, is removed and placed in a state; and 3) the sending of a child to another state for a visit.

Under the compact:

1. Subject to certain exceptions for adoptions and for interstate placements in custody proceedings in which a public child placing agency is not a party, the sending state retains jurisdiction over a child with respect to all matters of custody and disposition over which the sending state would have had jurisdiction if the child had remained in the sending state, including the power to order the return of the child.

2. Before a child is sent to a receiving state, the child placing agency of the sending state must request, and a public child placing agency in the receiving state must complete, an assessment of the proposed placement to determine the safety and suitability of the placement.

3. A child may not be placed in a receiving state until a public child placing agency in the receiving state approves the placement, unless a determination not to approve the placement is overturned on administrative or judicial review under the laws of the receiving state.

4. For the interstate placement of a child made by a public child placing agency or state court, the public child placing agency in the sending state is financially responsible for ongoing maintenance payments for the child during the period of the placement and for services for the child beyond the public services for which the child is eligible in the receiving state, and the receiving state is financially responsible for any assessment conducted by the receiving state and for supervision conducted by the receiving state at the level necessary to support the placement as agreed upon by the sending and receiving states.

5. For the placement of a child by a private child placing agency for adoption, the private child placing agency is legally responsible for the child until finalization of the adoption and financially responsible for the child absent a contractual agreement to the contrary.

The bill also creates an Interstate Commission for the Placement of Children (interstate commission) composed of a commissioner from each of the member states appointed by the executive head of the state human services administration with ultimate responsibility for the state's child welfare program. Each member state has one vote on the interstate commission. Under the bill, the interstate commission has various powers, including the power to do all of the following:

1. Promulgate rules to achieve the purposes of the compact. Rules promulgated by the interstate commission are binding in the compacting states to the extent and in the manner provided for in the compact. A majority of the legislatures of the member states may reject a rule. If that is done, the rule has no effect in any of the member states.

2. Provide for dispute resolution among member states and between member states and nonmember states.

3. Levy assessments on member states to cover the costs of the interstate commission's operations and activities.

4. Enforce compliance with the compact or the bylaws or rules of the interstate commission. If a member state defaults in the performance of any of the state's obligations under the compact, the interstate commission may provide remedial training and technical assistance, specify conditions by which the defaulting state must cure its default, enforce compliance with the compact by bringing legal action in federal court against the defaulting state, or avail itself of any other remedies available under state law or the regulation of official or professional conduct.

5. Report annually to the compacting states concerning the activities of the interstate commission during the preceding year.

6. Perform such functions as may be necessary to achieve the purposes of the compact.

A state may withdraw from the compact by repealing the statute that enacted the compact into law in that state. A withdrawal takes effect on the effective date of the repeal of that statute.

Finally, all lawful actions of the interstate commission, including all rules and bylaws promulgated by the interstate commission and agreements between the interstate commission and the member states, are binding on the member states, except that, if a provision of the compact exceeds a constitutional limit imposed on the legislature of a member state, that provision is ineffective in that member state to the extent of the conflict.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

3 (d) Nothing in this compact shall be construed to prohibit the concurrent
4 application of this compact with other applicable interstate compacts including the 5 Interstate Compact for Juveniles and the Interstate Compact on Adoption and 6 Medical Assistance. The interstate commission may, in cooperation with other
7 interstate compact commissions having responsibility for the interstate movement,

16 have had jurisdiction if the child had remained in the sending state. That 17 jurisdiction shall also include the power to order the return of the child to the sending 18 state.

19 (b) When an issue of child protection or custody is brought before a court in the 20 receiving state, that court shall confer with the court of the sending state to 21 determine the most appropriate forum for adjudication.

22 (c) In a case subject to this compact that is before a court, the taking of 23 testimony for a hearing before a judicial officer may occur in person or by telephone,
24 by audio-video conference, or by such other means as may be approved by the rules
25 of the interstate commission. A judicial officer may communicate with another

SENATE BILL 517

2 public child placing agency in the receiving state from contracting with a licensed
3 agency or person in the receiving state for an assessment or for the provision of 4 supervision or services for the child or from otherwise authorizing the provision of 5 supervision or services by a licensed agency or person during the period of placement.

6 (g) Each member state shall provide for coordination among its branches of 23 purposes.

24 g. Specifically relate to the interstate commission's participation in a civil

3 scope of interstate commission employment, duties, or responsibilities or that the 4 person had a reasonable basis for believing occurred within the scope of interstate
5 commission employment, duties, or responsibilities, except that this subdivision

7 liability caused by a criminal act or the intentional or willful and wanton misconduct
8 of that person.

9 2. The liability of the staff director, employees, and representatives of the 22 actual or alleged act, error, or omission that occurred within the scope of interstate

5 interstate commission shall be held harmless in the amount of any settlement or 6 judgment, including attorney fees and costs, obtained against those persons arising 7 out of an actual or alleged act, error, or omission that occurred within the scope of 8 interstate commission employment, duties, or responsibilities or that the person had 9 a reasonable basis for believing occurred within the scope of interstate commission
10 employment, duties, or responsibilities, if the actual or alleged act, error, or omission

12 file a petition in the U.S. district court for the District of Columbia or in the federal 13 district court for the district in which the interstate commission's principal office is 14 located for judicial review of that rule. If the court finds that the interstate 15 commission's action is not supported by substantial evidence in the rule-making
16 record, the court shall hold the rule unlawful and set the rule aside.

17           (f) If a majority of the legislatures of the member states reject a rule, those 18 states may by enactment of a statute or resolution in the same manner used to adopt

- 14          (i) 1. Upon determination by a majority of the members of the interstate
- 15          commission that an emergency exists, the interstate commission may promulgate an
- 16          emergency rule, but only if the rule is required to do any of the following:

10 the compacting states to the extent and in the manner provided for in this compact.

11           3. All courts shall take judicial notice of the compact and the rules in any 12 judicial or administrative proceeding in a member state pertaining to the subject

15 any action in which the validity of a compact provision or rule is the issue for which 16 a judicial determination has been sought and shall have standing to intervene in the 17 action. Failure to provide service of process to the interstate commission shall render 20 commission.

21           (b) Dispute resolution. 1. The interstate commission shall attempt, upon the
