247.01 Jurisdiction. The circuit court has jurisdiction of all actions to affirm or to annul a marriage, or for a divorce from the bond of matrimony, or from bed and board, and authority to do all acts and things necessary and proper in such actions and to carry its orders and judgments into execution as hereinafter prescribed. All such actions shall be commenced and conducted and the orders and judgments therein enforced according to the provisions of these statutes in respect to actions in courts of record, as far as applicable, except as provided in this chapter.

247.02 Marriages; annulment; causes for. A marriage may be annulled for any of the following causes existing at the time of marriage:

(1) Incurable physical impotency or incapacity of copulation, at the suit of either party, provided that the party making the application was ignorant of such impotency or incapacity at the time of marriage.

(2) Consanguinity or affinity where the parties are nearer of kin than the second cousins, computing by the rule of civil law, whether of the half or of the whole blood, at the suit of either party; but when any such marriage shall not have been annulled during the lifetime of the parties, the validity thereof shall not be inquired into after the death of either party.

(3) When such marriage was contracted while either of the parties thereto had a husband or wife living, at the suit of either party.

(4) Fraud, force, or coercion, at the suit of the innocent and injured party, unless the marriage has been confirmed by the acts of the injured party.

(5) Insanity, idiocy, or such want of understanding as renders either party incapable of assenting to marriage, at the suit of the other, or at the suit of a guardian of the lunatic or incompetent, or of the lunatic or incompetent on regaining reason, unless such lunatic or incompetent, after regaining reason, has confirmed the marriage; provided that where the party compos mentis is the applicant, such party shall have been ignorant of the other's insanity or mental incompetency at the time of the marriage, and shall not have confirmed it subsequent to such person's regaining reason.

(6) At the suit of the wife when she was under the age of fifteen years at the time of the marriage, unless such marriage be confirmed by her after arriving at such age.

(7) At the suit of the husband when he was under the age of eighteen at the time of the marriage, unless such marriage be confirmed by him after arriving at such age.

A complaint alleging that prior to marriage the defendant had promised to perform the marital duties of a wife, that for the month during which the defendant lived in the plaintiff's home she refused to have marital relations, and that she had secretly intended to enter into the marriage solely to gain financial advantages, stated a cause of action for annulment of the marriage on the ground of fraud going to the essence of the marriage contract. The husband's living with the wife for a month after her first refusal to engage in the marital relation did not constitute a confirmation of the marriage so as to bar the husband's action for annulment. Zerk v. Zerk, 257 W 555, 44 NW (2d) 568.

247.03 Proceedings to affirm marriage. When the validity of any marriage shall be denied or doubted by either of the parties the other party may commence an action to affirm the marriage, and the judgment in such action shall declare such marriage valid or annul the same, and be conclusive upon all persons concerned.

247.04 Divorce; kinds. Divorce shall be of two kinds:

- (1) Divorce from the bonds of matrimony, or divorce a vinculo matrimonii.
- (2) Divorce from bed and board, or divorce a mensa et thoro.

247.05 Annulment; jurisdiction; publication; personal service. For the purposes of annulment of marriage, jurisdiction may be acquired by publication as provided in the statutes, by personal service upon the defendant within this state, or in the manner provided in section 262.12, when either party is a bona fide resident of this state at the time of the commencement of the action. When both parties are nonresidents, jurisdiction to annul a marriage contracted within the state may be acquired in the same manner provided the action is commenced within a year after such marriage.

History: 1951 c. 419.

247.06 Divorce; jurisdiction; publication; personal service; conditions. For purposes of divorce, either absolute or from bed and board, jurisdiction may be acquired by publication as provided in the statutes, by personal service upon the defendant within this state, or in the manner provided in section 262.12, under the following conditions:

(1) When, at the time the cause of action arose, either party was a bona fide resident of this state, and has continued so to be down to the time of the commencement of the action, except that no action for absolute divorce shall be commenced for any cause other than adultery or bigamy, unless one of the parties has been for the two years next preceding the commencement of the action a bona fide resident of this state.

(2) If, since the cause of action arose, either party, for at least two years next preceding the commencement of the action, has continued to be a bona fide resident of this state.

History: 1951 c. 419.

247.07 Causes for divorce from contract. A divorce from the bond of matrimony may be adjudged for either of the following causes:

- (1) For adultery.
- (2) For impotency.
- (3) When either party, subsequent to the marriage, has been sentenced to imprisonment for three years or more; and no pardon granted after a divorce for that cause shall restore the party sentenced to his or her conjugal rights.
- (4) For the wilful desertion of one party by the other for the term of one year next preceding the commencement of the action.
- (5) When the treatment of the wife by the husband has been cruel and inhuman, whether practiced by using personal violence or by any other means; or when the wife shall be guilty of like cruelty to her husband or shall be given to intoxication.
- (6) When the husband or wife shall have been a habitual drunkard for the space of one year immediately preceding the commencement of the action.
- (7) Whenever the husband and wife shall have voluntarily lived entirely separate for the space of five years next preceding the commencement of the action, the same may be granted at the suit of either party. And such living apart for five years or more, pursuant to a decree of divorce from bed and board, without request during that period by either party to the other in good faith for a reconciliation and revocation of said judgment, shall not be any bar to an absolute divorce upon this ground at the suit of either party; provided further, however, that no divorce absolute upon this ground shall be granted unless six months of such separation shall be subsequent to the time when this act shall go into effect.

A judgment of divorce from bed and board on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment was a final judgment and barred an action, brought 16 months later and while such judgment was in full force and effect, for an absolute divorce on the same grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment. Weber v. Weber, 257 W 613, 44 NW (2d) 571.

In a husband's action for divorce on grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment, the doctrine of recrimination applied so that the wife, although not counterclaiming for divorce, should have been permitted to prove, if such was the fact, that the husband was guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment toward her in making false accusations of misconduct, and also because it would tend to show provocation of certain conduct on her part and the part of her son which, standing unexplained, amounted to cruelty by her. Elsinger v. Elsinger, 253 W 524, 46 NW (2d) 761.

Where it appeared that the husband's real reason for wanting a divorce was not any cruel and inhuman treatment on the part of the wife, but was to permit the husband to marry one of the girls with whom he had kept company since his marriage, the record did not support a judgment of divorce in favor of the husband. Cascio v. Cascio, 259 W 273, 48 NW (2d) 510.

247.08 Causes for divorce from bed and board. A divorce from bed and board forever or for a limited time may be adjudged:

- (1) For the fourth, fifth and sixth causes above specified.
- (2) For extreme cruelty of either party.

(3) On the complaint of the wife, when the husband, being of sufficient ability, shall refuse or neglect to provide for her or when his conduct toward her is such as may render it unsafe and improper for her to live with him.

247.09 Divorce from bond for same causes. A divorce from the bond of matrimony may also be adjudged for either of the causes specified in the second and third subdivisions of section 247.08 whenever, in the opinion of the court, the circumstances of the case are such that it will be discreet and proper so to do.

247.095 Actions to compel support by husband. Any wife, whose husband fails or refuses, without lawful or reasonable excuse, to provide for the support and maintenance of his wife or minor children, may commence an action in any court having jurisdiction in actions for divorce, to compel such husband to provide for the support and maintenance of herself and such minor children as he may be legally required to support. The court, in such action, may determine and adjudge the amount such husband should reasonably contribute to the support and maintenance of said wife or children and how such sum should be paid. The amount so ordered to be paid may be changed or modified by the court upon notice of motion or order to show cause by either the husband or wife upon sufficient evidence. Such determination may be enforced by contempt proceedings.

See note to 46.10, citing Steffenson v. Steffenson, 259 W 51, 47 NW (2d) 445.

247.10 Collusion; procurement; connivance; condonation; stipulation; property rights. No decree for divorce shall be granted if it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the suit has been brought by collusion, or that the plaintiff has procured or connived at the offense charged, or has condoned it, or has been guilty of adultery not condoned; provided that the parties may, subject to the approval of the court, stipulate for a division of estate, for alimony, or for the support of children, in case a divorce be granted or a marriage annulled.

247.11 Accomplice to be interpleaded. Any one charged as a particeps criminis shall be made a party, upon his or her application to the court, subject to such terms and conditions as the court may prescribe.

247.12 Divorce, trials. All hearings and trials to determine whether or not a decree shall be granted, shall be had before the court and shall be public. The testimony shall be taken by the reporter in divorce actions where the judgment will be subject to revision, and shall be written out and filed with the record if so ordered by the court. The reporter's fees for transcribing the same shall be paid with the clerk's fees.

Cross Reference: See 270.07 re jury trial in divorce cases.

247.13 Divorce counsel; appointment; oath; Milwaukee county. (1) In each county of the state, except in counties having a population of 500,000 or more, the circuit judge or judges in and for such county shall by order filed in the office of the clerk of the circuit court on or before the first Monday of July of each year, appoint some reputable attorney, of recognized ability and standing at the bar, divorce counsel for such county. Before entering upon the discharge of his duties such counsel shall take and file the official oath. The person so appointed shall continue to act until his successor is appointed and duly qualified.

(2) In any county having a population of 500,000 or more, there is created in the classified civil service the office of divorce counsel and an assistant divorce counsel who shall be appointed from the membership of the bar residing in such county by the judges of the circuit court of such county, pursuant to the provisions of sections 16.31 to 16.44. Before entering upon the performance of his duties, such divorce counsel and assistant divorce counsel shall take and file the official oath. Such divorce counsel and assistant divorce counsel may be appointed court commissioners as provided in section 252.14 (2). They shall receive such salary as may be fixed by the county board, shall perform their duties under the direction of the circuit judges of such county and shall be furnished with quarters and necessary office furnishings and supplies. The county board shall provide them their necessary stenographic and investigational service. The assistant divorce counsel shall perform all the duties and have all the powers of the divorce counsel when so directed by the latter or in his absence or disability. In addition to the duties of such divorce counsel as defined in chapter 247, he shall perform such other duties as the circuit court of such county may direct.

(3) In any county having a population of 500,000 or more in any action for divorce or for the annulment of a marriage in which the defendant has appeared and has interposed an answer or an answer and counterclaim and in which one of the parties thereto informs the court that he or she will not oppose the prayer of the other party and if the court is satisfied from the facts submitted that the withdrawal of such opposition is done in good faith and without collusion, the court may then order such action to be tried as a default without the presence or appearance of the divorce counsel.

History: 1951 c. 581.

247.14 Service on and appearance by divorce counsel; other actions disclosed. In any action to affirm or annul a marriage, or for a divorce, the plaintiff and defendant shall, within ten days after making service on the opposite party of his complaint, answer, counterclaim or reply, as the case may be, serve a copy of the same upon the divorce counsel of the county in which the action is begun. In addition to all other allegations, the complaint shall specifically allege whether or not an action for obtaining a divorce by either of the parties was or has been at any time commenced or pending in any other court, or before any judge thereof, in this state, or elsewhere. Such counsel shall appear in the action when the defendant fails to answer or withdraws his answer before trial; also, when the defendant interposes a counterclaim and the plaintiff thereupon neither supports his complaint nor opposes the counterclaim by proof; and when the court is satisfied that the issues are not contested in good faith by either party.

247.15 Default actions; divorce counsel to appear. No decree in any action in which divorce counsel is required by section 247.14 to appear shall be granted until such counsel in behalf of the public has made a fair and impartial investigation of the case and fully advised the court as to the merits of the case and the rights and interests of the parties and of the public, nor until the proposed findings and judgment shall have been submitted to such divorce counsel. Such divorce counsel is empowered to cause witnesses to be subpoenaed on behalf of the state when in his judgment their testimony is necessary to fully advise the court as to the merits of the case and as to the rights and interests of the parties and of the public. The fees of such witnesses shall be paid out of the county treasury as fees of witnesses in criminal cases are paid. The court may direct that such fees be repaid to the county by one of the parties to the action, in which case it shall be the duty of the divorce counsel to see that such repayment is made.

247.16 Divorce counsel or law partner; when interested; procedure. Neither such divorce counsel nor his partner or partners shall appear in any action to affirm or annul a marriage or for a divorce in any court held in the county in which he shall be acting, except when authorized to appear by section 247.14. In case he or his partner shall be in any way interested in such action, the presiding judge shall appoint some reputable attorney to perform the services enjoined upon such divorce counsel and such attorney, so appointed, shall take and file the oath and receive the compensation provided by law.

247.17 Divorce counsel; fees; salary. (1) Excepting in counties having a population of 250,000 or more, in any action to affirm or annul a marriage, or for a divorce, the divorce counsel shall receive the sum of $15 for appearing upon the trial and the sum of $10 for making an investigation, to be paid by the county wherein the action was tried upon the order of the presiding judge and the certificate of the clerk of the court. The court may order payment for an investigation whether or not the divorce counsel appears upon the trial, but in any case only after satisfactory proof in writing that such investigation has been made is filed with the court. When any case shall occupy more than one day of the time of such divorce counsel, the court may, in its discretion, require the parties to the action or either of them to pay such additional sum to compensate such divorce counsel, as the justice of the case may require, having due regard to the financial ability of such parties, which additional sum in counties having a population of 250,000 or more or in counties where the divorce counsel is compensated on a salary basis shall be paid into the treasury of the county.

(2) In counties having a population of less than 250,000, the county board may by resolution provide an annual salary for the divorce counsel and the divorce counsel upon his appointment by the circuit judge or judges shall receive such annual salary in lieu of the fees otherwise prescribed. When the divorce counsel is paid an annual salary as provided in this subsection the county board may also by resolution prescribe such other duties to be performed by him in the field of domestic relations law as are allied with and are not in conflict with his duties as divorce counsel.

247.18 Corroboration required; defaults. (1) No decree for annulment of marriage, or for divorce, shall be granted in any action in which the defendant does not appear and defend the same in good faith unless the cause is shown by affirmative proof aside from any admission to the plaintiff on the part of the defendant.

(2) No judgment of divorce or annulment shall be granted on the testimony of the party, unless the required residence and grounds for divorce or annulment be corroborated except cruel and inhuman treatment, when no corroborating evidence is available.

247.19 Record; impounding. No record or evidence in any case shall be impounded, or access thereto refused, except by special written order of the court made in its discretion in the interests of public morals. And when impounded no officer or other person shall permit a copy of any of the testimony or pleadings, or the substance thereof, to be taken by any person other than a party to the action, or his attorney of record, without the special order of the court.

247.20 Former name of wife. The court, upon granting a divorce from the bonds of matrimony, may allow the wife to resume her maiden name or the name of a former deceased husband in case there be no children of the marriage.

247.21 Foreign decrees; comity of states. Full faith and credit shall be given in all the courts of this state to a decree of annulment of marriage or divorce by a court of competent jurisdiction in another state, territory or possession of the United States, when the jurisdiction of such court was obtained in the manner and in substantial conformity with the conditions prescribed in sections 247.05 and 247.06. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to limit the power of any court to give such effect to a decree of annulment or divorce, by a court of a foreign country as may be justified by the rules of international comity; provided, that if any inhabitant of this state go into another state, territory or country for the purpose of obtaining a decree of divorce for a cause which occurred while the parties resided in this state, or for a cause which is not ground for divorce under the laws of this state, a decree so obtained shall be of no force or effect in this state.

The defendant in an action for divorce who is not a resident of the state of the forum, and is not served personally with process in the state of the forum and takes no part in the proceedings, is not concluded by the judgment of divorce from raising the issue of the plaintiff's domicile in another court; the state where the parties admittedly resided up to the time of the divorce is not required to extend faith and credit to the judgment under such circumstances; but where both parties are physically present and participate in the divorce proceedings, the decree is conclusive. Davis v. Davis, 259 W 1, 47 NW (2d) 338.

[247.22 Stats. 1937 repealed by 1939 c. 476]

247.23 Support of wife and children; suit money. In every action to affirm or annul a marriage or for a divorce or for support and maintenance under section 247.095 the court or a judge may, during the pendency thereof, make such orders concerning the care, custody and suitable maintenance of the minor children and to require the husband to pay such sums for the support of the wife and the minor children in her custody and to enable her to carry on or defend the action and in relation to the persons or property of the parties as in its discretion shall be deemed necessary or proper; and may prohibit the husband from imposing any restraint on her personal liberty.

247.24 Judgment; care and custody, etc., of minor children. In rendering a judgment of nullity of marriage or for divorce, whether from the bond of matrimony or from bed and board, the court may make such further provisions therein as it shall deem just and proper concerning the care, custody, maintenance, and education of the minor children of the parties, and give the care and custody of the children of such marriage to one of the parties to the action, or may, if the interest of any such child shall demand it, and if the court shall find that neither of the parents is a fit and proper person to have the care and custody of any such child, give the care and custody of such child to any fit and proper person, who is a resident of this state and willing to receive and properly care for such child, or to any institution incorporated for such purposes and willing and authorized to receive and care for such child, having due regard to the age and sex of such child. Whenever the welfare of any such child will be promoted thereby, the court granting such decree shall always have the power to change the care and custody of any such child, either by giving it to or taking it from such parent or other person or such institution, provided that no order changing the custody of any child shall be entered until after notice of such application shall have been given the parents of such child, if they can be found, and also to the person or institution that then has the custody of such child.

A judgment in a divorce suit does not prevent the court from modifying a judgment providing for the minor children, if the circumstances of the parties have so changed as to render such modification equitable, but a modification in matters relating to custody is an abuse of discretion in the absence of a substantial change in the premises on which the original determination was made. In a divorce action wherein the husband alleged certain adulterous acts on the part of the wife, and the trial court found that the husband had falsely accused the wife of adulterous conduct, an adjudication of the judgment of divorce that the wife was a proper person to have the custody of the children was res adjudicata as to the fitness of the wife, so far as the alleged events preceding the judgment were concerned. Hill v. Hill, 257 W 388, 43 NW (2d) 455.

Improper conduct of the wife in riding with a married man and on occasions embracing him and "petting" did not require the court to find that she was an unfit person to have the custody of the children. Barrock v. Barrock, 257 W 565, 44 NW (2d) 527.

When the wife is proved to be morally unfit to have the custody of the minor children of the parties and there is no testimony that the father is incompetent, unfit, or unworthy to have the care and custody of the children, their care and custody should be awarded to him if he can provide for them a suitable home with competent and proper supervision in his absence. Vogel v. Vogel, 259 W 373, 48 NW (2d) 501.

247.25 Revision of judgment. The court may from time to time afterwards, on the petition of either of the parties, revise and alter such judgment concerning the care, custody, maintenance and education of the children, or any of them, and make a new judgment concerning the same as the circumstances of the parents and the benefit of the children shall require.

247.26 Alimony, how adjudged. Upon every divorce from the bond of matrimony for any cause excepting that of adultery committed by the wife, and also upon every divorce from bed and board, the court may further adjudge to the wife such alimony out of the estate of the husband, for her support and maintenance, and such allowance for the support, maintenance and education of the minor children committed to her care and custody as it shall deem just and reasonable, and the court may finally divide and distribute the estate, both real and personal, of the husband and so much of the estate of the wife as shall have been derived from the husband, between the parties and divest and transfer the title of any thereof accordingly, having always due regard to the legal and equitable rights of each party, the ability of the husband, the special estate of the wife, the character and situation of the parties and all the circumstances of the case; but no such final division shall impair the power of the court in respect to revision of allowances for minor children under section 247.25. No such judgment shall divest or transfer title to real estate unless such judgment or a certified copy thereof is recorded in the office of the register of deeds of the county in which such real estate is situated.

A property settlement in lieu of alimony granted the wife the farm of the parties, which was acquired originally by the investment of $4,000 of the wife's money, and is now subject to indebtedness of $4,900, and valued by the trial court at $16,000 but producing an income of only $1,500 per year, on condition that the wife pay $5,500 to the husband in specified instalments; judgment is deemed inequitable as unduly jeopardizing the wife's rightful share, and the husband's share is accordingly reduced to $3,500. Gipp v. Gipp, 253 W 220, 45 NW (2d) 623.

247.27 Wife to support children, when. When a divorce shall be adjudged for a cause or fault committed by the wife and the care, custody and maintenance of their minor children or any of them shall be adjudged to the husband the court may adjudge to the husband, out of the separate estate of the wife, such sums for the support and education of such minor children as it shall deem just and reasonable, considering the ability of the parties and all the other circumstances of the case.

[247.28 Stats. 1941 repealed by 1943 c. 553 s. 36a]

247.28 Support and maintenance of wife and children. In a judgment in an action for a divorce, although such divorce be denied, the court may make such order for the support and maintenance of the wife and children, or any of them, by the husband or out of his property as the nature of the case may render suitable and proper.

247.29 Alimony, clerk of court, divorce counsel, fees and compensation. All orders or judgments providing for permanent or temporary alimony or support of children shall direct the payment of all such sums to the clerk of the court for the use of the person or persons to whom the same has been awarded. A party securing an order for temporary alimony or support money shall forthwith file said order, together with all pleadings in the action, with the clerk of the court. Said clerk shall disburse the money so received pursuant to said judgment and order and take receipts therefor. All moneys received or disbursed pursuant to this rule shall be entered in a record book kept by said clerk, which shall be open to the inspection of the parties to the action or of their attorneys. If the alimony or support money adjudged or ordered to be paid shall not be paid to the clerk at the time provided in said judgment or order, the clerk and the divorce counsel of said county shall take such proceedings as shall be directed by the court or presiding judge to secure the payment of such sum. Copies of any order issued to compel such payment shall be sent to counsel who represented the party who was awarded alimony or support money. In case any fees of officers in any proceedings taken by the divorce counsel, including the compensation of the divorce counsel at the rate of $20 per day, be not collected from the person proceeded against, the same shall be paid out of the county treasury upon the order of the presiding judge and the certificate of the clerk of the court.

247.30 Alimony, payment of and security for. In all cases where alimony or other allowance shall be adjudged to the wife or for the maintenance or education of the children the court may provide that the same shall be paid in such sums and at such times as shall be deemed expedient, and may impose the same as a charge upon any specific real estate of the party liable or may require sufficient security to be given for the payment thereof according to the judgment; and upon neglect or refusal to give such security or the failure to pay such alimony or allowance the court may enforce the payment thereof by execution or otherwise as in other cases. No such judgment shall become effectual as a charge upon specific real estate until the judgment or a certified copy thereof is recorded in the office of the register of deeds in the county in which the real estate is situated.

247.31 Trustee may be appointed. The court may also appoint a trustee, when deemed expedient, to receive any money adjudged to the wife upon trust, to invest the same and pay over the income thereof for her maintenance or the maintenance and education of the minor children or any of them, or to pay over the principal sum in such proportions and at such times as the court shall direct. The trustee shall give such bond, with such sureties as the court shall require, for the faithful performance of his trust.

247.32 Revision of judgment. After a judgment providing for alimony or other allowance for the wife and children, or either of them, or for the appointment of trustees as aforesaid the court may, from time to time, on the petition of either of the parties, revise and alter such judgment respecting the amount of such alimony or allowance and the payment thereof, and also respecting the appropriation and payment of the principal and income of the property so held in trust, and may make any judgment respecting any of the said matters which such court might have made in the original action. But when a final division of the property shall have been made under the provisions of section 247.26 no other provisions shall be thereafter made for the wife.

247.33 Judgment; from bed and board; revocation. In all cases of divorce from bed and board for any of the causes specified in section 247.08, the court may decree a separation forever thereafter, or for a limited time, as shall seem just and reasonable, with a provision that in case of a reconciliation at any time thereafter, the parties may apply for a revocation or suspension of the decree; and upon such application the court shall make such order as may be just and reasonable.

247.34 Restoring property upon annulment. Upon rendering a judgment annulling a marriage the court may make provision for restoring to the wife the whole or such part, as it shall deem just and reasonable, of any estate which the husband may have received from her or the value thereof, and may compel him to disclose what estate he shall have received and how the same has been disposed of. The court may in like manner provide for the restoration to the husband of any property which he has transferred to his wife.

247.35 Judgment not to affect wife's property. No judgment nullifying a marriage or for a divorce of any kind shall in any way affect the right of a wife to the possession and control of her separate property, real or personal, except as provided in this chapter; and nothing contained in this chapter shall authorize the court to divest any party of his title in any real estate further than is expressly provided herein.

247.36 Dower rights. When a marriage shall be dissolved by the granting of a decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, the wife shall not be entitled to dower in any lands of the husband.

247.37 Effect of judgment of divorce from bonds. (1) When a judgment or decree of divorce from the bonds of matrimony is granted so far as it affects the status of the parties it shall not be effective until the expiration of one year from the date of the granting of such judgment or decree; excepting that it shall immediately bar the parties from cohabitation together and that it may be reviewed on appeal during said period. But in case either party dies within said period, such judgment or decree, unless vacated or reversed, shall be deemed to have entirely severed the marriage relation immediately before such death. Should the parties cohabit together after granting of such judgment or decree and before vacation or reversal of same, they shall be subject to the penalties provided by section 247.39.

(2) So far as said judgment or decree affects the status of the parties the court shall have power to vacate or modify the same for sufficient cause shown, upon its own motion, or upon the application of either party to the action, at any time within one year from the granting of such judgment or decree, provided both parties are then living. But no such judgment or decree shall be vacated or modified without the service of notice of motion, or order to show cause on the divorce counsel, and on the parties to the action, if they be found. The court may direct the divorce counsel or appoint some other attorney, to bring appropriate proceedings for the vacation of said judgment or decree. The compensation of the divorce counsel or other attorney for performing such services shall be at the rate of $20 per day, same to be paid out of the county treasury upon order of the presiding judge and the certificate of the clerk of the court. If the judgment or decree shall be vacated it shall restore the parties to the marital relation that existed before the granting of such judgment or decree. If after vacation of the judgment or decree either of the parties shall bring an action in this state for divorce against the other the court may order the complainant in such action to reimburse the county the amount paid by it to the divorce counsel or other attorney in connection with such vacation proceedings.

(3) It shall be the duty of every judge, who shall grant a judgment or decree of divorce, to inform the parties appearing in court that the judgment or decree, so far as it affects the status of the parties, will not become effective until one year from the date when such judgment or decree is granted.

(4) Such judgment or decree, or any provision of the same, may be reviewed by an appeal taken within one year from the date when such judgment or decree was granted. At the expiration of such year, such judgment or decree shall become final and conclusive without further proceedings, unless an appeal be pending, or the court, for sufficient cause shown, upon its own motion, or upon the application of a party to the action, shall otherwise order before the expiration of said period. If an appeal be pending at the expiration of said year, such judgment or decree shall not become final and conclusive until said appeal shall have been finally determined.

On a divorced wife's application, filed after the husband's death, to reopen the divorce judgment and allow the wife additional property on the ground of mistake on her part as to values in entering into a stipulation for division of property, the record supported a finding that there was a failure of proof of any mistake on the part of the wife, who had assisted the husband in the business in which the properties had been accumulated, and was familiar with all of the properties, and had as much knowledge of their values at the time of the divorce action as she had later. Cox v. Cox, 259 W 259, 48 NW (2d) 508.

247.38 Judgment revoked on remarriage. When a judgment of divorce has been granted and the parties shall afterwards intermarry the court, upon their joint application and upon satisfactory proof of such marriage, may revoke all judgments and orders of divorce, alimony and subsistence which will not affect the right of third persons. After a final judgment of divorce has been rendered, the court, upon the application of the party paying alimony, on notice to, and on proof of the marriage, after such final judgment, of the party receiving such alimony, shall by order modify such final judgment and any orders made with respect thereto, by annulling the provisions of such final judgment or orders, or of both, directing payment of such alimony.

247.39 Adultery, who guilty of. If any persons, after being divorced from the bond of matrimony for any cause whatever, shall cohabit together before intermarriage they shall be liable to all the penalties provided by law against adultery.

247.40 Uniform divorce recognition act. (1) A divorce from the bonds of matrimony obtained in another jurisdiction shall be of no force or effect in this state, if both parties to the marriage were domiciled in this state at the time the proceeding for the divorce was commenced.

(2) Proof that a person obtaining a divorce from the bonds of matrimony in another jurisdiction was (a) domiciled in this state within 12 months prior to the commencement of the proceeding therefor, and resumed residence in this state within 18 months after the date of his departure therefrom, or (b) at all times after his departure from this state, and until his return maintained a place of residence within this state, shall be prima facie evidence that the person was domiciled in this state when the divorce proceeding was commenced.

(3) This section shall be so interpreted and construed as to effectuate its general purpose to make uniform the law of those states which enact it.

(4) This section may be cited as the Uniform Divorce Recognition Act.

(5) This act shall take effect January 1, 1950.

Where, in a husband's action for divorce in a Wyoming court, the defendant wife, domiciled in Wisconsin, was not served personally in Wyoming, did not attend personally, and took no part in the proceedings except to enter a formal special appearance by counsel objecting to jurisdiction because the plaintiff husband lacked domicile, the wife was not concluded by the judgment of divorce from raising the issue of the husband's domicile in an action brought by her in a Wisconsin court to annul the divorce, and the Wisconsin court was not concluded by the full-faith-and-credit clause from determining that both parties at all times were residents of Wisconsin and entering judgment declaring the judgment of the Wyoming court void for lack of jurisdiction. Davis v. Davis, 259 W 1, 47 NW (2d) 338.
