President pro tempore of the senate in the chair.

10:10 A.M.

RULING OF THE CHAIR

On April 16, 1975, Senator Whittow raised the point of order that since the rules were not suspended to order an immediate third reading of Senate Bill 120 that the bill should be placed on the second day's printed calendar.

The chair took the point of order under advisement.

Senate Rule 35 relating to separate readings and Senate Rule 18 (2) relating to the Daily Calendar cover this question:

Senate Rule 35 reads: "Every bill, and every joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution, shall receive three separate readings by title previous to its passage except where otherwise provided but shall not receive two readings on the same day."

Senate Rule 18 (2) reads: "The printed calendar shall be furnished to members before such a calendar is acted upon and shall provide at least 24 hours notice of matters to be taken up on the next session day. The printed calendar shall not be changed with that period."

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE [April 22, 1975]

In order to be consistent with the language and intent of the rules cited, it is the chair's opinion that when a measure is ordered to a third reading, it is automatically placed on the 13th order of business on the next calendar to be printed.

Respectfully submitted,
FRED A. RISSER
President pro tempore
