Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, a person is not eligible for benefits under the following veterans programs if that person is delinquent in child support or maintenance payments or owes past support, medical expenses or birth expenses:

1. The veterans' tuition and fee reimbursement program.
2. The veterans economic assistance program.
3. The veterans trust fund stabilization loan program.
4. The veterans correspondence courses and part-time classroom study program.
5. The veteran's housing loan program.

This bill allows such a person to receive these benefits if the person provides the department of veterans affairs with a child support repayment agreement that has been accepted by the county agency that is designated to handle child and spousal support, paternity and medical support.
