Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate This bill will reduce the number of persons who are prohibited from carrying a concealed weapon and thus potentially reduce the number of person prosecuted by district attorney offices. However, it creates a forfeiture for failing to carry the permit to carry the concealed weapon and a fine and possible jail time for carrying a concealed weapon in certain prohibited places. It is also unknown if the increase in the number of persons carrying a concealed weapon will result in an increase in the number of person who commit a crime being caught, than would otherwise be the case. Finally it is also unknown if the increase in the number of person carrying a concealed weapon will lead to an increase in crimes per se or an increase in the severity of crime committed given the enhanced availability of a weapon on the sour of the monent. The net impact on prosecutorial workload of the reduction in some crimes and the increase in other crimes and captures is unknown. .
Long-Range Fiscal Implications The actual impact of this bill, were it to become law, should be carefully studied to determine its impact on prosecutorial workload.
