Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal E	The state of the s
The department has the ability to adjust the questions on the handgun hotline forms as necessary. If federal or state law changes, our department is able to reflect those changes on our form in a timely manner. AB 664 would specifically prescribe which questions the department can and cannot use. These questions, although very similar to the ones the department currently has in use, might be outdated by legislative or federal action and therefore cause an unnecessary lag to the reprinting of the forms causing an undesired effect.  In addition, one of the questions prohibited under AB 664 would not allow the department to mirror the federal government's form and would cause prosecuting difficulties under state law.  The department recently changed this form at a cost of approximately $600. If this bill were to pass as written, the department would have to dispose of these new forms and print new ones. The department expects that the cost would remain at approximately $600.
