Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate  AB 955 changes the selection method of the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents. This bill mandates that the board would be comprised of 15 members. One would be elected from each congressional district (for a total of nine regents) and each would serve a four-year term. Four regents would be students elected by their peers in the UW-System and would serve two-year terms. One regent would be appointed by the technical college system board (for a four-year term), and one member would be the superintendent of public instruction.  Each member of the board who is not a full-time state officer would be paid $10,000 yearly. No funding is provided under the bill. Therefore, this would result in an annual cost to the System of up to $140,000.  Under the bill, the state would be divided into four student regent districts. Student regent elections would be held annually, with two seats coming open each year. The Board of Regents would determine the method whereby full- and part-time students would be permitted to elect student regents by secret ballot. If more than two candidates run for a student regent seat, a primary election would be required. The Board would also determine a method to hold elections to fill any student regent vacancies. Every ten years, the Board would be required to adjust the student regent districts in order to ensure that the districts contain a substantially equal number of full- and part-time students.  UW System would be responsible for the cost of the secret-ballot annual elections, as well as, any primary elections that may be required. The cost of these elections is unknown, but could be somewhat significant. In addition, the board ais to provide a $9,000 grant per student candidate for campaign financing, provided certain guidelines are met. The cost of these grants would also be borne by System and could amount to $36,000 per year for the regular election, more if a primary is required.
