Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill creates a onetime sales tax rebate for individuals. Under the bill, and subject to a number of conditions and limitations, a claimant may claim, or is eligible to receive, a check if the claimant meets one of the following eligibility criteria:

1. The individual was a full-year resident of Wisconsin in 1998 and either has filed a 1998 Wisconsin income tax return or 1998 homestead credit claim or did not file such a return or claim but does file a form to be prepared by the department of revenue (DOR).

2. The individual was a part-year resident of Wisconsin in 1998 and either has filed a 1998 Wisconsin income tax return or did not file such a return but does file a form to be prepared by DOR.

3. The individual was a nonresident of this state in 1998 but does file a form to be prepared by DOR.

The amount of the rebate ranges from $190 to $500, based on the individual's or couple's 1998 Wisconsin adjusted gross income (WAGI) and filing status, or is calculated by DOR based on the form that is filed by claimants who did not file an income tax return or homestead credit claim. The amount of a part-year resident's rebate is based on the individual's WAGI. A nonresident who can document at least $20 of sales taxes paid to Wisconsin in 1998 may claim a rebate of 30.4% of sales taxes paid in that year, up to a maximum rebate of $354.

Under the bill, the amount of a rebate for which a claimant is otherwise eligible is offset against outstanding tax liabilities owed to the state. In addition, the rebate may not be claimed by an individual who was claimed as a dependent on another individual's 1998 federal income tax return. If an individual who was a resident and filed a 1998 Wisconsin income tax return or 1998 homestead credit becomes deceased after he or she filed his or income tax or homestead credit return, the amount of rebate for which the claimant is eligible must be paid to the claimant's estate.

If DOR is unable to locate an individual or married couple who is eligible to receive the rebate by December 31, 2000, or if an individual or couple who is issued a check does not cash the check by December 31, 2000, the right to the rebate lapses.

Under current law, the nonrefundable individual income tax school property tax credit may be claimed for taxable years beginning before January 1, 2001. For taxable year 1999, the credit that may be claimed is 16.4% of the first $2,000 of property taxes accrued or rent constituting property taxes, or 16.4% of the first $1,000 of property taxes or rent constituting property taxes for a married person filing separately. For taxable year 2000, the credit that may be claimed is 10% of the first $2,000 of property taxes accrued or rent constituting property taxes, or 10% of the first $1,000 of property taxes or rent constituting property taxes for a married person filing separately. Under this bill, the school property tax credit may not be claimed for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1998.

Under current law, the amount to be expended for the school levy property tax credit in 2001 is increased by $60,000,400. This bill repeals that increase.

For further information see the state fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
