Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

This bill creates a grant program for classroom book collections administered by the department of public instruction (DPI). DPI must award each eligible school board a grant equal to $500 multiplied by the number of kindergarten to grade three classrooms in the school.

Current law requires each school board to hire a DPI-certified reading specialist to develop and coordinate a comprehensive reading curriculum for grades kindergarten to 12. This bill creates a reading specialists grant program under which a school district may receive a grant equal to 50% of the cost in the prior school year of the average starting salary of a reading specialist if at least 10% of the pupils enrolled in a school in the school district failed in the previous school year to score at the basic level or above on the third grade reading examination and the school board either hires an additional reading specialist, or, if the school board already
