Analysis by the Legislative Reference Bureau

Under current law, an air carrier company pays a tax to the state based on the value of the company's property in this state. The tax is called an ad valorem tax. An air carrier company pays the ad valorem tax in lieu of paying local general property taxes.

Under this bill, an air carrier company that operates a hub terminal facility in this state is exempt from the ad valorem tax and is also exempt from paying local general property taxes.

The bill appropriates all taxes and fees received from aeronautical activities (including ad valorem taxes on air carrier companies, general aviation fuel taxes and aircraft registration fees) for aeronautical activities. This appropriation substitutes for the current appropriation of segregated revenues for these same activities. The bill transfers the unencumbered balance of the current appropriation of segregated revenues to the new appropriation.

This bill will be referred to the joint survey committee on tax exemptions for a detailed analysis, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.
