The joint committee on legislative organization is required by s. 13.02 (3), stats., and by joint rule 81 (1) to develop a proposed session schedule early in each biennial session period. This session schedule must "include at least one meeting in January of each year" to implement the "annual sessions" intent, and is "to be submitted to the legislature" for approval in the form of a joint resolution.

Under joint rule 81 (2), by majority action of the 2 houses or of the organization committees of the 2 houses, any floorperiod may be convened earlier than its scheduled convening date or may be extended beyond its scheduled ending date. Under this joint resolution, by majority action of the 2 houses, any floorperiod other than the floorperiod that commences on June 8, 1999, may be adjourned earlier than its scheduled ending date; that floorperiod is not authorized to be adjourned until the general fund executive budget bill has passed both houses.

Under joint rule 83 (2), during the periods of committee work preceding the final general-business floorperiod (the floorperiod that commences on March 7, 2000), bills, resolutions and amendments may be introduced.

Under joint rule 83 (4), ~~March 23~~, 2000, is the day on which proposals die for the session, except proposals that have been passed by one house and concurred in, as amended, by the other house, unless the legislature, by joint resolution, extends the floorperiod that commences on March 7, 2000, and enumerates the proposals to be carried forward for consideration during the extension.

Under joint rule 83 (5), no new proposals (except proposals pertaining to a veto review session or to any special or extraordinary session) may be introduced after ~~March 23~~, 2000.

Ken-Here is my first attempt at your issue. This approach would eliminate the need for some, but not all, special and extraordinary session adjournment resolutions by building their content into the session schedule. If someone wanted a change to something in this new subsection, they would still need an adjournment resolution. We would need to change the title to the last paragraph of subsection (2) in the session schedule from "Last bill to governor." to "Bills to governor."; renumber subsection (4) to subsection (5); and create the following new subsection (4):

<sup>(CS)</sup>
"(4) SPECIAL AND EXTRAORDINARY SESSIONS. (a) Adjournment. Except for consideration of executive vetoes or partial vetoes, a motion adopted in each house to adjourn a special or extraordinary session pursuant to this joint resolution shall constitute final adjournment of the special or extraordinary session.

(b) Bills to governor. No later than 4:30 p.m. on the Thursday occurring 2 full weeks after the day of final adjournment of a special or extraordinary session, the chief clerk of each house shall submit to the governor for executive action thereon any enrolled bill passed by both houses after May 17, 2000, and originating in the chief clerk's house during the special or extraordinary session.

(c) Veto review. A special or extraordinary session shall reconvene upon a call of a majority of the members of the joint committee on legislative organization solely for the consideration of executive vetoes or partial vetoes if an enrolled bill passed by both houses during the special or extraordinary session was vetoed or partially vetoed on or after the first day of the veto review floor period.

That makes sense. The May 2 to 4 floorperiod would be like part of a veto review session rather than a full floorperiod. March 30 would be the bill introduction deadline and the March floorperiod would be the last regularly scheduled floorperiod. PJD

Talked with Chvala's office about the year 2000 January and February floorperiods. That was a typo carried over from the change made in the 1999 schedule. The January 25-27 and February 1 floor period should be one.

Thanks,

This joint resolution keeps alive and carries over to the May 2 to 4 floorperiod proposals passed by one house and considered but not adversely and finally disposed of by the other house as of March 30. Under Joint Rule 83 (4) (b), the proposals that are carried over to the veto review floorperiod are those that are not yet agreed to by both houses and have been passed by one house and concurred in, as amended, by the other house. This joint resolution provides that the veto review floorperiod cannot consider those proposals. The joint committee on legislative organization is required by s. 13.02 (3), stats., and by joint rule 81 (1) to develop a proposed session schedule early in each biennial session period. This session schedule must “include at least one meeting in January of each year” to implement the “annual sessions” intent, and is “to be submitted to the legislature” for approval in the form of a joint resolution.

Under joint rule 81 (2), by majority action of the 2 houses or of the organization committees of the 2 houses, any floorperiod may be convened earlier than its scheduled convening date or may be extended beyond its scheduled ending date. Under this joint resolution, by majority action of the 2 houses, any floorperiod other than the floorperiod that commences on May 11, 1999, may be adjourned earlier than its scheduled ending date; that floorperiod is not authorized to be adjourned until the general fund executive budget bill has passed both houses.

Under joint rule 83 (2), during the periods of committee work preceding the final general-business floorperiod (the floorperiod that commences on March 7, 2000), bills, resolutions and amendments may be introduced.

Under joint rule 83 (4), March 30, 2000, is the day on which proposals die for the session, except proposals that have been passed by one house and concurred in, as amended, by the other house, unless the legislature, by joint resolution, extends the floorperiod that commences on March 7, 2000, and enumerates the proposals to be carried forward for consideration during the extension.

Under joint rule 83 (5), no new proposals (except proposals pertaining to a veto review session or to any special or extraordinary session) may be introduced after March 30, 2000.

Under joint rule 82 (1) (g), proposals that have been passed by one house and concurred in, as amended, by the other house as of March 30, 2000, may be considered at the veto review session. This joint resolution provides, instead, that proposals that have passed by one house and have been considered but not adversely and finally disposed of by the other house are to be considered at the May 2 to 4, 2000, limited-business session.

The joint resolution also contains a schedule for special and extraordinary sessions regarding adjournment, submission of bills to the governor and veto review.

The joint committee on legislative organization is required by s. 13.02 (3), stats., and by joint rule 81 (1) to develop a proposed session schedule early in each biennial session period. This session schedule must "include at least one meeting in January of each year" to implement the "annual sessions" intent, and is "to be submitted to the legislature" for approval in the form of a joint resolution.

Under joint rule 81 (2), by majority action of the 2 houses or of the organization committees of the 2 houses, any floorperiod may be convened earlier than its scheduled convening date or may be extended beyond its scheduled ending date. Under this joint resolution, by majority action of the 2 houses, any floorperiod other than the floorperiod that commences on May 11, 1999, may be adjourned earlier than its scheduled ending date; that floorperiod is not authorized to be adjourned until the general fund executive budget bill has passed both houses.

The joint committee on legislative organization is required by s. 13.02 (3), stats., and by joint rule 81 (1) to develop a proposed session schedule early in each biennial session period. This session schedule must “include at least one meeting in January of each year” to implement the “annual sessions” intent, and is “to be submitted to the legislature” for approval in the form of a joint resolution.

Under joint rule 81 (2), by majority action of the 2 houses or of the organization committees of the 2 houses, any floorperiod may be convened earlier than its scheduled convening date or may be extended beyond its scheduled ending date. Under this joint resolution, by majority action of the 2 houses, any floorperiod other than the floorperiod that commences on May 11, 1999, may be adjourned earlier than its scheduled ending date; that floorperiod is not authorized to be adjourned until the general fund executive budget bill has passed both houses.

Under joint rule 83 (2), during the periods of committee work preceding the final general-business floorperiod (the floorperiod that commences on March 7, 2000), bills, resolutions and amendments may be introduced.

Under joint rule 83 (4), March 30, 2000, is the day on which proposals die for the session, except proposals that have been passed by one house and concurred in, as amended, by the other house, unless the legislature, by joint resolution, extends the floorperiod that commences on March 7, 2000, and enumerates the proposals to be carried forward for consideration during the extension.

Under joint rule 83 (5), no new proposals (except proposals pertaining to a veto review session or to any special or extraordinary session) may be introduced after March 30, 2000.

Under joint rule 82 (1) (g), proposals that have been passed by one house and concurred in, as amended, by the other house as of March 30, 2000, may be considered at the veto review session. This joint resolution provides, instead, that these proposals are to be considered at the May 2 to 4, 2000, limited-business session along with proposals for which a committee of conference has been appointed by the houses as of March 30, 2000.
