Under current law, any person may inspect, copy or receive a copy of a public record unless the record is specifically exempted from access under state or federal law or authorized to be withheld from access under state law, or unless the custodian of the record demonstrates that the harm done to the public interest by providing access to the record outweighs the strong public interest in providing access. Applying this test, the courts have denied requests for access to some personnel records of public employes, such as home addresses of law enforcement officers. See State ex rel. Journal/Sentinel, Inc. v. Arreola, 207 Wis. 2d 496, 516 (Ct. App., 1996).

This bill specifically authorizes the custodian of any record of a state or local governmental unit to withhold from access information contained in a record of the governmental unit pertaining to the home address or home telephone number of an employe of that governmental unit.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

3 SECTION 1. 19.36 (10)<sup>x</sup> of the statutes is created to read:
4 19.36 (10)✓ HOME ADDRESSES AND TELEPHONE NUMBERS OF EMPLOYES. An authority
5 may withhold from inspection and copying under s. 19.35 (1) (a) any information

BILL

1 contained in a record of that authority pertaining to the home address or home
2 telephone number of an employe of the authority.
