AGRICULTURE ✓

Current law requires county land conservation committees to prepare land and water resource management plans. The plans are reviewed by the state land and water conservation board and reviewed and approved or disapproved by the department of agriculture, trade and consumer protection (DATCP). This bill changes the requirements for the contents of a land and water resource management plan by, among other things, adding requirements for identification of water quality goals, for a strategy to provide information and education related to soil and water resource management and for including a system to monitor the progress of the activities described in the plan.

For further information see the local fiscal estimate, which will be printed as an appendix to this bill.

The people of the state of Wisconsin, represented in senate and assembly, do enact as follows:

2 SECTION 1. 92.10 (6) (a) ^X of the statutes is repealed and recreated to read:

Subject: LRB 1243/1

Becky,

Please make the following modifications to LRB 1243/1:

Modify ss. 92.04(2)(b) and 92.10(5)(a) to require the board to review and approve or disapprove the land and water resource management plans prepared under s. 92.10. The board would no longer make recommendations to the department on approval or disapproval of the plans.

Modify s. 92.10(4)(d) to require the department to review, in conjunction with the Department of Natural Resources, land and water resource management plans, summarize the plans and make recommendations to the Land and Water Conservation Board on approval or disapproval of the plans. Retain the second sentence of s. 92.10(4)(d).

The intent of these changes is to create a joint DATCP/DNR review process for the land and water resource management plans (as a first step to integrating the nonpoint and soil and water conservation activities) and to give the LWCB the authority to approve or disapprove the plans.

Let me know if you have any questions.
