Collection of Social Security Numbers under ALIS
[Paper #667]

Motion:

Move to specify that, if the federal government enacts another system of maintaining a database of persons for child support enforcement that does not involve the collection of social security numbers, that the Department seek any necessary statutory changes with respect to the sale of hunting and fishing licenses to allow Wisconsin to comply with the system.

~~In addition, require the state to seek a waiver from the federal government regarding the collection of social security numbers related to child support enforcement.~~

Stricken friendly-motion

Note:

Under current law, DNR collects social security numbers as part of the federal Personal Responsibility and Work Opportunity Reconciliation Act of 1996 for child support enforcement purposes. Under ALIS, a license buyer provides the social security number the first time a purchase is made from the system, after which he or she is provided with a unique DNR customer number that can be used in subsequent transactions.
