Assumptions Used in Arriving at Fiscal Estimate

This bill modifies the legally-defined boundary line between Jackson County and Monroe County Wisconsin, involving approximately 115 acres along the Black River. The acreage is found in three areas, approximately between Melrose (Jackson County) and the Horse Shoe lake area.

There is no fiscal impact to this bill under the assumption that this border correction under the bill will modify the statutes under Chapter 2, Wis Stats, to reflect current administrative and legal practice (i.e., what is already claimed and taxed) by the two counties.

For the record, both county boards have enacted resolutions supporting these changes. The published resolutions indicate that all affected landowners and town boards have been contacted and all parties are in favor of the proposed corrections.
